Walker said:[1]

> Benjamin, m. March 29, 1787, Rhoda Nott, dau. of Samuel? and sister of President Nott of Union College, N. Y. She d. Nov. 20, 1791. Had 3 chil. He was Lieutenant in the Militia.
> A year or two after the death of his wife, Mr. W., by the dishonesty of others, became involved in his business, not only losing his valuable farm, but was burdened with a heavy debt. Fearing imprisonment, he fled from his home, leaving his young children, and his native State. His calamity and separation proved to be one for life. He was unable to rise above and conquer his misfortunes, wandered from place to place, engaging in any business which promised present success, and failing in all endeavors, he at length died in Chenango Co., Penn.
> His wife possessed many of the qualities that distinguish the family to which she belonged, such as talent, sound judgement, kindness and piety. In her early death, her husband lost a wise counsellor and a devoted wife; her children an affectionate and faithful mother; and the world a bright christian example. Love inspired her heart, kind words were the fruit of her lips, and benevolent acts the cheerful offering of her hands.

"His w. b. Dec. 1, 1790? (Error, Goodwin's Notes.) She was the 7th child of Stephen Nott, 1st of Middletown, Ct., then of Saybrook, E. Haddam, and Ashford. He m. 1749, Deborah Selden, of Lyme, Ct."[2]

Bap. ch."[1] Assuming the marriage date of 1785 is correct, which it appears to be from the birth dates of her children, and given the birth date of her husband in 1762, Betsey would likely have been born in 1763. Based on this, Betsey is placed third in birth order, differing from Walker's placement as sixth.

He was a housewright, emigrated to Johnstown, Saratoga Co., N. Y., and about 1812, removed to Butternutts, N. Y. He was a man of fair abilities, sterling good sense, honest, temperate and remarkably industrious. He was in youth a Congregationalist. His wife was a Friend, and her stronger intellect carried him with her. He ever afterward, worshipped "in the Meeting," and his house was "home" for all the Ministers of the persuasion. Two only of his children continued their connection with the Friends. He labored for the education of his family, and his ambition was to train them up in honor, usefulness and piety. In 1831, most of the children being settled in life, the old homestead was deserted, and they passed the pleasant sunset of their lives in the home of their dau., Mrs. Munson. Mrs. W. was strong in character, and in person. Of inexhaustible energy and resources, the care of 13 children sat lightly upon her. She d. soon after leaving her home, at Camillus, and both are buried in C.
> Says one who knew him well—"He was one of the lights of the earth. A plain, simple mechanic, he brought up 13 children in the fear of God, and in the strictest honesty, and stranger still, in the strictest temperance."
> It is the family pride of his descendants, that not one has ever dishonored the life and virtues of the Father, or the sterling goodness of the Quaker Mother.
> Of his 7 sons, 4 are mechanics, one a merchant, and 2 are lawyers. All but one of his 13 children are professedly religious.

xiii. son Cooley Beach b. on 6 April 1810 in Hubbardton; m. Nancy Durant in July 1831 when 21 years old.

Exposition on Rachel Walker:

"Rachel, b. in Coventry, R. I., Aug. 4, 1769, (1768, Fam. Rec.) d. March 13, 1849. She m. 1783, Aaron Beach, who was b. in Va., June 10, 1761, and d. June 17, 1846. He was a farmer, settled in Whiting, Vt.; rem. in 1791, to Scottsville, N. Y. In 1794, compelled by the Indian wars to return to Vt., he settled in W., and represented the town in the Assembly in 1801 and 5. He also held various town offices. In 1811, he rem. to Cambria, Niagara Co., N. Y. War with Great Britain having been declared, in 1813 the enemy crossed at Niagara, and his family were again driven in terror from their home, taking nothing with them, but a few articles, which were stolen the following night. They carried with them upon a bed, a son sick through exposure and privations. Their privations and sufferings during the War were extreme, and a vivid and sad remembrance of its scenes of terror and disaster, is preserved by their children. They returned to Vt., and again in the Fall of 1815, went to Cambria, where they lived until their death. Mrs. B. was a woman of great excellence and moral worth. Few persons are called upon to pass through the trying scenes that fell to her lot. But her fortitude and patient resignation under all her trials, her firm religious trust, through all her sufferings, taught a lesson worthy to be engraven upon every heart."[1]

The family record of Rachel's year of birth is probably correct given the year of her marriage when she would then have been about fifteen years old, and given the date of her first child's birth when she would have been sixteen years old. No record of Rachel's birth has been found in the Coventry vital records and, if her family removed to Clarendon in 1768, she may have been born in Clarendon.

"Philip, b. in Attleboro, April 28, 1766, Fam. Rec., (Feb. 1764,?) d. March 31, 1840. He m. Jan., 1796, Hannah Field, dau. of Anthony, in Ferrisburgh, Vt., b. March 20, 1778, and d. March 1853, ae. 75. She was m. Meth. ch. They settled in Williston, Vt. In his youth he was a fur hunter. At one time he had as companions, his younger brother Johnson and Capt. Jas. Powers. In attempting to traverse the wilderness from Lake Champlain to the St. Lawrence river, they lost their way and were 8 days without food or sustenance of any kind. And the preservation of the party was owing to the muscular energy, and dauntless fortitude of Philip Walker. Johnson's strength became entirely exhausted, and Philip had to make continual exertions to rouse him from stupor, and help him on the journey. Their dogs died of starvation. On the 9th day, they fell in with a party of Indians, who had just killed a bear, the intestines of which, after being slightly rinsed in a brook near by, were their first harmless repast, and relief from the pangs of starvation. Remaining a few days to recruit their exhausted strength, an Indian guide directed them to their hunting ground. He was a man of indomitable energy and perseverance, and left at his decease a large landed property."[1]

Sept. 1, 1789, in her 40th yr., having 3 chil. He m. 2d, March 24, 1790, Mrs. Mary (Hutchinson) Parmelee, of Goshen, Ct., who was b. in Salisbury, Ct., Oct. 14, 1760, and d. Dec. 10, 1838, having 4 chil., who d. young. She was widow of Rev. Elisha Parmelee, of G., who was ord., July 3, 1783, 1st Pastor of Cong. ch. in Lee. In person, Mr. W. was over 6 ft. in height, and well proportioned. He was member of the Congress of Deputies of the several towns of Berkshire Co., convened at Stockbridge, July 6, 1774. This County Convention or Congress so called, of the inhabitants of Berkshire, partook largely of the feelings which pervaded the country, in respect to the Revolutionary crisis. The covenant signed in Lenox, July 14, 1774, in reference to the English Gov't, not to import, purchase, &c., was signed by over 100 persons. Among the names was that of Wm. Walker, who with one other only, survived in 1828. (Barber's Hist. Coll.) He was Associate Justice of the Court of Sessions, (a County Court,) 1809, and from 1811 to 1814. The following account of Judge Walker was written by his son, Judge Wm. P. Walker, on the day of his death, Oct. 31, 1831, addressed to Rev. Dr. Shephard, his pastor.
> "He was born in Rehoboth, July 3, 1751, and came to this country when about 19 yrs. of age. He joined the army in May, 1775, at Cambridge, immediately after the battle of Lexington. He did not remain in the army till the close of the War. At what time he left, I cannot ascertain. I have heard him mention being with the army in Canada, and their great sufferings, especialy from the small pox, which he had the natural way at Montrose. On the retreat of the army from Canada, which I think must have been in the Fall of 1776, he joined Washington's army in N. J., and was in the battles at Trenton and Princeton. He was also in the battle at Bennington, Vt. He was a member of the Convention which framed the Consitution of this Commonwealth, and was repeatedly a member of the General Court of this town. In 1781, soon after the adoption of the Constitution, he was appointed a Justice of the Peace in this county, and was in Commission till his death. In the same yr. he was appointed by the Gov. Hancock, Register of Probate, which office he soon after resigned, (1785?) In 1783, he was appointed Senator from this county, but never took his seat at the Board. In Nov., 1795, he was appointed by Gov. Adams, Judge of Probate for this county, which office he resigned in Jan., 1824. In 1807, he was appointed by Gov. Sullivan, a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in this county, which office he held till a new system for that Court was established. In 1824, he was chosen elector of President and Vice President of the U. States.

"He expired this morning at 2 o'clock.

"In haste yours, Wm. P. Walker."

. . . His epitaph, written it is supposed by Rev. Dr. Shephard is as follows:—

"This is erected to the memory of the Honorable William Walker. He was born at Rehoboth, in the County of Bristol, July 3, 1751, and died Oct. 31, 1831. He removed to this town in 1773, was an officer in the army of the Revolution in 1776, a member of the convention which formed the Constitution of this Commonwealth in 1780, a judge of the Court of Common pleas four, and judge of the probate twenty-eight years. In all the relations of life he sustained a character of unshaken integrity:— He lived as a follower of Christ; was an able advocate of his doctrines; and died rejoicing in a Gospel hope."

"Shorey, Abell, of John and Patience, Sept. 12, 1766."[1]

"Shorey, Abel and Mary Read, both of Rehoboth, married by Rev. John Ellis April __, 1791."[2] This Abel is assumed to have married this Mary, although their children are recorded as the children of Col. Abel and Mercy, and he was quite young to be a Colonel at just 25 years old. (Daughter Amanda's death shows her parents as Col. Abel and Mary.)

Mary must have died before 1818 since: "Shorey, Col. Abel of Seekonk and Nancy Fuller of Rehoboth, married by Rev. Otis Thompson March 29, 1818."[3]

Shultz[4] provides birth, marriage, death and burial information for Abel and his wives.

"Shorey, Abel and Bethiah French, both of Rehoboth, married by Rev. John Ellis July 31, 1788. Int. June 8, 1788."[2] Although the children are recorded as the children of Abel 2nd and Bethiah, this Abel is assumed to have married this Bethiah. The children's names include Abigail (Nabby), the same as Abel's sister; David, the same as Abel's uncle; and Miles, the same as Abel's grandfather. Abel's younger brother Jacob was Jacob, 2nd.

Abel and Bethiah were second cousins.

Bethiah is assumed to have died after November 1794 and before 1799 since Abel married again in that year: "Shorey, Abel, 2d, and Sally Brown, both of Rehoboth, married by Daniel Carpenter, Esq., April 10, 1799."[3]

Shultz[4] provides birth, marriage, death and burial information for Abel and his wives.

Harvey was also known as Henry.

Some information is from Ancestry.com's OneWorldTree. As to Henry's father:

> As quoted from page 493 in the "Abraham Harding Family Book" as written by Rev. Abner Morse: "Job, M.D., must have served his time at the clother's trade, for, May 9, 1785, he purchased for £24, of Samuel Bullen, half of a fulling-mill, with water-privilege, where the lower cotton-mill now stands, in Medway village, and in the conveyance is styled clothier. He inherited, (?) and about the same time owned the Bent saw-mill at the same place. He opened a store on the N. side of the main street, opposite the road to Franklin, and is presumed to have sold out to Capt. Felt, about 1800, when he moved to Hampton [sic], now in Penobscot County, Me. What attention he had previously given to the study of medicine is unknown, but he had not probably been a member of the medical school of his near neighbor in Franklin, the eminent Dr. Leprelette. After his removal to Maine he practised medicine, and attained eminence in the profession. In 1787 he married Dorcas Reed at Medway, who d. Oct. 5, 1814, on the third day of her widowhood, he having died October 2, aged only 52."

A southeastern section of Illinois was known as the English Prairie because of the number of families from Great Britain who were settling there. English Prairie where Harvey died is recorded as a historical post office in McHenry County. There is also a cemetery and school named English Prairie Cemetery in McHenry County.

> CHAPTER XXV BURTON TOWNSHIP
> BOUNDARIES-EARLY SETTLEMENTS - EARLY EVENTS - SPRING GROVE VILLAGE - INCORPORATION - POST OFFICE - POPULATION - TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS.
> BOUNDARIES
> Burton Township has the least area of any township in this county. It contains one third of congressional township 46, range 9 and lies in the extreme northeastern part of the county. It is bounded on the north by the State of Wisconsin; on the east by Lake County, Ill.; on the south by McHenry Township; and on the west by Richmond Township. It is drained by Nippersink Creek, and is well situated and by nature adapted to high-class agriculture and stockraising.
> EARLY SETTLEMENT
> Burton Township was among the first to be settled. It was first settled by Englishmen, and the name English Prairie was given it. The original settler was Jonathan Imeson, who came here from England in 1836 and located in section 18 of this township, and in 1885, when seventy-five years old, was still residing on this land. A year or two later Richard Wray settled on sections 17 and 18; Stephen Lawson on section 18; and Martin Hoffman, William Fowles, Richard Upston, Joseph Rice, John A. Mann, and Joseph Blivin, all located in section 30.

In an account published concerning the settlement in this township, the following appears and is too good to be lost in the annals of the county: "The English settlers, after their arrival staked out their claims and then went on further west thinking to find more eligible lands. But not succeeding in this, they returned to their first choice only to find that a Yankee named John Sanborn had arrived and was occupying their claims. They asked him to quit. He would not. Words multiplied, but with this result: Sanborn stayed and the Englishmen stayed. One day when Sanborn was mowing, a dozen or more of his neighbors came to him and ordered. him to leave; he turned upon them with his scythe and drove the whole crowd away. In the excitement Sanborn lost his hat. One of the visitors found it and kept it. Sanborn went bareheaded for several months until he could find time to go to town and purchase another. There was a long time that an unfriendly feeling obtained against the Englishmen living upon the "English Prairie" and any other class who might come in to settle there. John Sanborn completed his days in the spot he had chosen for his home."

EARLY EVENTS

The township was first called Benton by Jackson Wray, but upon it being learned that there was already a post office and township of Benton in Illinois, the name was changed to Burton.

The first religions services within the township were held at the residence of Jonathan Imeson in 1843. The minister came from Kenosha, then called Southport, to conduct them.

Cemeteries were early located at Spring Grove, English Prairie, Stevens, Cole's, Sanborn's and Wray's.

Soon after the settlement was made William Stearns taught a term of school having fifteen pupils. The building in which it was taught was a log one on the Nippersink Creek.

The first death known among white people here was that of Mrs. Frank Richardson, who passed away in the autumn of 1837.

The first marriage was that uniting Jonathan Imeson and Mary Wray, November 30, 1837. The minister who performed the ceremony was Rev. Joel Wheeler. Their first son, Robert T. Imerson, was the first child born within the township.

The first post office was called Blivin's Mills. It was established in 1851, with Joseph Rice as postmaster. Rice held the office during his lifetime. The name was changed to Spring Grove, January 24, 1883. English Prairie post office was established about 1854. Here it is known that the postmasters were: Gideon B. Cooley, Harvey Wilson and Carl C. Mead.

SPRING GROVE VILLAGE

This little village takes its name, evidently, from the spring, and the beautiful grove that once surrounded it, which was viewed by the pioneer band who first located here. It was laid out in 1845 by Mr. Barnum. William Fowles and Richard Robinson built a log house east of the grove, and these constituted the first cabins in the place. John E. Mann opened the first store in 1845.

A grist-mill and cheese factory were among the early industries at this point. Here Joseph Rice built and conducted a hotel in 1848, continuing it until 1868.

Exposition on Amos Wilson:

Vital records from Stevens:[1] Amos was born about 1786 probably at Orwell. He married Polly Baird, daughter of Daniel Baird and Betsey Mixer. She was born on 2 September 1796 in Worcester, Massachusetts. Amos died before Polly married second Dr. Anson Root, son of Ephraim Root and Lydia Skinner, on 14 June 1847 probably in Illinois. He was born on 1 December 1786 in Piermont, New Hampshire, and died on 18 February 1866.

The Wilson surname is mentioned among the early settlers of Kane County, Illinois, removing from Genesee County, New York, and settling in Elgin in 1841.[2]

Polly was the sister of Relief Baird who married Amos' brother Ira. Anson was the widower of Amos' sister Lucinda.

"Baird, Polly, d. of Daniel, Jr. and Betsey, Sept. 2, 1796."[3]

"Polly" is a variant name for "Mary," and Polly was known later in life as Mary.

Mary, her second husband Anson Root and her daughter Relief by her first husband Amos Wilson were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Elgin, Kane County, Illinois, as follows:[4]

Anson Roote [sic], 63, male, miller, real property $10,000, born New Hampshire.
Mary Roote, 53, female, born Massachusetts.
Thos. Avery, 28, male, miller, born England.
Frederick Firman, 23, male, miller, bon Germany.
Relief Wilson, 26, female, born New York.

Mary and her second husband Anson Root were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Elgin, Kane County, Illinois, as follows:[5]

Andeson [sic] Root, 73, male, physician, real property $25,000, personal property $4000, born New Hampshire.

Exposition on Hon. Heman Wilson:

Vital records from Stevens:[1] Dea. Heman was born on 1 June 1798 in Orwell. He married first Eleanor Van Epps on 18 December 1820. She was born in 1801 in Schenectady, New York, and died in 1852 in Arcade, New York. Heman married second Ruth (_____) Pierce, a widow, in 1854. She was born in 1801 and died in 1879. Heman died on 5 July 1884 in Arcade. He was buried between his two wives in Arcade Rural Cemetery.

A biographical sketch[2] of William said:

> Heman Wilson was brought up a farmer on his father's estate in Middlebury; and, when he set out on his own career, he came as a pioneer to the town of China, now Arcade, where he bought a tract of nine hundred acres of land, which he proceeded to clear and cultivate. This was in the year 1837; and, his investment having proved satisfactory, Mr. Wilson continued to reside there until 1868, after which he spent the remainder of his life with his son William H. In addition to farm work, he interested himself in public matters, being a Magistrate in Arcade for thirty-five years, a Circuit Judge, also a Supervisor of the town (1842-43-53), and for twenty-five years was Postmaster. Heman Wilson closed his long and useful life at the age of eighty-six years, July 5, 1884. His wife was Miss Eleanor Van Epps, a cousin of Martin Van Burent. Her death took place in Arcade at the age of fifty years. Heman and Eleanor Wilson were the parents of seven children, four of whom are still living: Zibe, wife of Stafford Wade; Ozro, deceased; Truman; Harriet, deceased; William Henry; Ellen, deceased; and Frank H. Both parents were member of the Baptist church, of which Heman was Deacon for forty-seven years.

Exposition on Orinda Wilson:

Vital records from Stevens:[1] Orinda was born on 26 February 1804 in Orwell. She was twin to Orsamus. She married Charles Grandison Patterson. He was born in 1798. Orinda died on 11 August 1841 near Barreville, McHenry County, Illinois. Charles remarried, and he died in 1859.

Charles, his second wife Elizabeth, his children by his first wife Orinda and his daughter Josephine by Elizabeth were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Brooklyn (now Crystal Lake), McHenry County, Illinois, as follows:[2]

Charles Patterson, 52, male, farmer, real property $5200, born Connecticut.
Elizabeth Patterson, 36, fmale, born New York.
Lydia Patterson, 19, female, born Michigan.
Charles Patterson, 14, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Augustus Patterson, 11, male, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Frank Patterson, 9, male, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Josephine Patterson, 6, female, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Abraham Patterson, 22, male, farmer, born New York.
Thankful Tiffany, 61, female, born Massachusetts.
Mariah Tiffany, 22, female, born New York.
Freeman Tiffany, 26, male, farmer, born New York.
Tmothy McCarthy, 24, male, laborer, born Ireland.

The relationship of Abraham Patterson to this family is unknown. He may have been a nephew of Charles. It is possible that Thankful Tiffany was Elizabeth's mother.

The same children of Charles (who was deceased) were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Woodstock, McHenry County, Illinois, in the household of his daughter Naomi and her husband Edwin Eldridge Thomas as follows:[3]

E. E. Thomas, 35, male, sheriff, real property $7250, personal property $1000, born New York.
Naomi Thomas, 32, female, born New York.
Charles Thomas, 15, male, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Earl Thomas, 13, male, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
George Thomas, 10, male, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Cora Thomas, 8, female, born Illinois.
Lydia Patterson, 28, female, real property $1500, born New York [sic, Michigan].
Josephine Patterson, 16, female, real property $2400, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Charles Patterson, 23, male, farmer, real property $4290, personal property $500, born Ohio.
Augustus Patterson, 21, male, farmer, real property $2400, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Frank Patterson, 18, male, farmer, real property $2400, born Illinois, attended school within the year.
Harvey Tyler, 38, male, farm laborer, born New York.
James Murry, 15, male, born Pennsylvania, attended school within the year.
Michael Scott, 25, male, day laborer, born [Ireland?].

James Murry was noted as convicted of larceny. Michael Scott was noted as convicted of arson and larceny. Both appear to be in the jail which was part of the dwelling, in the care of Sheriff Edwin.

2280 iv. son Walter S. Wilson b. in 1833/4 in Middlebury Township.

Exposition on Daniel Wilson:

Vital records from Stevens:[1] Daniel was born on 12 January 1796. On 3 March 1811 (a few years after Daniel's father Michael died), in Genesee County, New York (Middlebury Township, later in Wyoming County), Daniel's uncle Ebenezer Wilson was appointed Daniel's guardian. It was stated then that Daniel was age 15 on 12 January 1811 and was now "insane."

Apparently either the "insane" label referred to a very difficult child at that time or else Daniel subsequently recovered, because Daniel and his family were later enumerated in northeast Illinois near his first cousin's families (the families of his uncle Ebenezer's children) as noted below.

Daniel, when twelve years old, removed to Middlebury, New York, with his uncle Ebenezer in 1808. Daniel married Betsey _____, a native of Massachusetts, by 1820 and they had their children in Middlebury before removing to Du Page County, Illinois, between 1834 and 1840.

Daniel and his family were enumerated in the 1820 federal census of Middlebury Township, Genesee County (now Wyoming County), New York, as follows:[2]

One male under 10 (?), one male 10 to 15 (?), one male 16 to 25 (Daniel), one female under 10 (?) and one female 16 to 25 (Betsey).

Daniel and his family were enumerated in the 1830 federal census of Middlebury Township, Genesee County (now Wyoming County), New York, as follows:[3]

Two males under 5 (sons Francis and Wiliam), one male 30 to 39 (Daniel), two females 10 to 14 (?), one female 30 to 39 (Betsey).

Daniel and his family were enumerated in the 1840 federal census of Du Page County, Illinois, as follows:[4]

Three males 5 to 9 (sons Orsamus and Walter), two males 10 to 14 (sons Francis and William), one male 40 to 49 (Daniel), one female 40 to 49 (Betsey).

Daniel and his family were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Winfield, Du Page County, Illinois, as follows:[5]

Daniel Wilson, 54, male, farmer, real property $2500, born Vermont.
Betsey Wilson, 56, female, born Massachusetts.
Francis M. Wilson, 21, male, farmer, born New York.
William M. Wilson, 20, male, farmer, born New York.
Orsamus R. Wilson, 18, male, farmer, born New York.
Walter S. Wilson, 16, male, farmer, born New York.

Daniel and his family were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Winfield, Du Page County, Illinois, as follows:[6]

Danl. Wilson, 64, male, farmer, real property $3000, personal property $800, born Vermont.
Betty Wilson, 66, female, born Massachusetts.
Francis Wilson, 30, male, laborer, born New York.
Orsamus Wilson, 27, male, laborer, born New York.

Research by Cheryl Waterman has Daniel's death on 23 July 1863 in Dupage County, Illinois.

Betsey (a widow) and her son Francis were enumerated in the 1870 federal census of Winfield, Du Page County, Illinois, as follows:[7]

Betsey Wilson, 75, female, white, keeps house, personal property $4000, born Massachusetts.
Francis Wilson, 39, male, white, day laborer, born New York.

Exposition on Martha Wilson:

Vital records from Stevens:[1] Martha ("Patty") was born on 16 March 1786 probably in Shoreham. She married first Robert McKean, son of James McKean and Jane Scott. He was born in Cecil County, Maryland [sic, in Pennsylvania], and died in Burlington, Bradford County, Pennsylvania. Martha married second Daniel Loomis. Martha died on 17 October 1862, age 76 years, 7 months and 1 day. She was buried in Alba Cemetery in Alba, Pennsylvania.

See http://freepages.genealogy.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~mdtmgug/cemeteries/alba01cem.htm for a listing and photograh of Martha's burial in Alba Cemetery. Her gravestone recording "In Memory of Martha Wife of Robert McKean" was no doubt erected by her children in memory of their mother and father, ignoring her (relatively brief) second marriage to Daniel Loomis.

Martha and her family were enumerated in the 1810 federal census of Burlington Township, Lycoming County (later Bradford County), Pennsylvania, as follows:[2]

Two males under ten (son Allen and possibly son Thomas), one male 10 to 15 (?), one male 16 to 25 (Robert), one female 10 to 15 (?), one female 16 to 25 (Martha).

Martha and her family were enumerated in the 1820 federal census of Burlington Township, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, as follows:[3]

Three males under 10 (sons Noah, Andrew and James), two males 10 to 15 (sons Allen and Thomas), one male 26 to 44 (Robert), one female under 10 (daughter Lemira), one female 26 to 44 (Martha).

Martha was enumerated in the 1830 federal census of Burlington Township, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, in the household of her son Allen as follows:[4]

One male 10 to 14 (brother James or Andrew), one male 15 to 19 (brother Thomas or Noah), one male 20 to 29 (Allen), zero [sic] females 5 to 9 (sister Jane), one female 10 to 14 (?), one female 15 to 19 (sister Lemira), one female 40 to 49 (mother Martha). Brother Robert (five years old) is unaccounted for.

Martha, her second husband Daniel Loomis and others were enumerated in the 1840 federal census of Troy, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, as follows:[5]

One male 10 to 14 (son Robert McKean [Jr.]), 1 male 10 to 29 (?), one male 60 to 69 (Daniel Loomis), one female 15 to 19 (Jane McKean), one female 20 to 29 (?), one female 50 to 59 (Martha [McKean] Loomis).

Martha (a widow) was enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Burlington Township, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, in the household of her son James as follows:[6]

J. S. McKean, 30, male, blacksmith, real property $500, born Pennsylvania.
S. W. McKean, 30, female, born Pennsylvania.
Martha Loomis, 63, female, born Vermont.

Martha (a widow) was enumerated in the 1856 state census of Franklin Township, Linn County, Iowa, in the household of her daughter Jane as follows:[7]

Edward Kemp, 37, male, married, born Pennsylvania, farmer.
Jane C. Kemp, 33, female, married, born Pennsylvania.
C. H. Kemp, 6, male, born Pennsylvania.
C. W. Kemp, 5, male, born Pennsylvania.
E. W. Kemp, 2, female, born Pennsylvania.

Addam Miller, 19, male, born Pennsylvania, laborer.
Martha Lumice [sic], 69, widow, born Vermont.

Martha (a widow) was enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Towanda, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, in the household of her son Allen as follows:[8]

Allen McKean, 51, male, prothonotary, real property $3000, personal property $2000, born Pennsylvania.
Eliza McKean, 51, female, personal property $2000, born New York.
Eliza McKean, 16, female, born Pennsylvania, attended school within the year.
Anna Redding, 21, female, born Vermont.
Martha Loomis, 72, female, born Vermont.
Jane Kemp, 36, female, born Pennsylvania.

Exposition on Silas Gray:

Silas was noted in a Gray family history:[1]

> SILAS GRAY, son of James Gray and Parthenia White, was born in Otsego Co., N.Y., March 22, 1792, and died at Marion, Linn Co., Iowa, August 9, 1846. In 1815, he married Omira Tate Wilson, daughter of Noah Wilson, Revolutionary War veteran, at Alba, Bradford Co., Pa. She was born in Vermont, Oct. 12, 1792, and died at Marion, Iowa, Aug. 22, 1860. He was a Royal Arch Mason and a "wheel hoss" in the Baptist church. The records of the Adjutant General's Office, Albany, N.Y., show that Silas Gray was a private in Capt. Jehial Felt's Co. of Col. Geo. Fleming's Regt., N.Y. Militia, War of 1812, from May 18, 1812, to August 25, 1812, at Ft. Oswego, N.Y.

Married second Ann _____. Ann _____ m. (1) _____ Crandall; issue (surname Crandall): Hannah, Sarah, Harriet and Andrew.

Exposition on Col. Irad Wilson:

Irad's biography appears in a history of Bradford County, Pennsylvania:[1]

> Irad, born January 20, 1798 at Addison, Vt., began reading medicine at the age of 16 years and practiced that profession at Alba for nearly half a century; he was chosen county commissioner in 1869 and elected state representative, 1843 and '44; was active in the state militia, filling the positions of captain and colonel and was best known as "Colonel Wilson"; was Alba's first post-master and kept up his active duties as ticket and station agent until past 85 years of age; he was a gracious and remarkable old gentleman; his death occurred July 4, 1884. Col. Wilson married, first, Sally M. Elliott and had children, Volney M., Charles S., Allen M., Iram, Addison, Maria, Hannah, Samantha, Sarah, Almira and Harriet; married, second, Ann Crandall.

A correction to the above appears later:[2]

> Wilson, page 39 — The children of Dr. Irad and Sally (Elliot) Wilson were Oliver, Volney M., Irad, Iram, Cortland S., Allen M., Addison, Eugene, Maria (Mrs. L. J. Audrus), Samantha (Mrs. John Baker), Almira (Mrs. Jefferson Witherall), Emma (Mrs. Erastus Manley). Hannah, Sarah, Harriet and Andrew were step-children, or children of his second wife, Mrs. Ann Crandall.

Irad and his family were enumerated in the 1820 federal census of Canton, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, as follows:[3]

One male 16 to 25 (Irad), one female under 10 (daughter Maria), one female 16 to 25 (Sally).

Irad and his family were enumerated in the 1840 federal census of Canton, Bradford County, Pennsylvania, as follows:[4]

Two males 5 to 9 (sons Courtland and Allen), two males 10 to 14 (sons Iram and Irad), two males 15 to 19 (sons Oliver and Volney), one male 40 to 49 (Irad), two females under 5 (daughters Almira and Emma), one female 5 to 9 (daughter Samantha), one female 15 to 19 (?), one female 30 to 39 (Sally).

"George, Sept. 5, 1761; d. Jan. 7, 1805, 44th year."[1]

Ware also said:[2]

George, born in Dighton, Sept. 5, 1761; died there Jan. 7, 1805. Physician. Studied medicine with Dr. Bayliss of Dighton. He married in May, 1785, Polly, daughter of Elkanah (Samuel, John, John) and Alice (Beal) Andrews, born in Dighton, Feb. 26, 1768. Nov. 4, 1788, George Ware of Dighton was appointed the guardian of "Polly Ware, daughter of Elkanah Andrews, she being a minor, over 14 yr." (His wife.) She married second (pub. May 13, 1809), Dr. William Wood, of Dighton, formerly of Swanzey. (One daughter, Adeline Wood, married Dr. Charles (Seth, Allen) Talbot of Dighton.)

Epitaph

"Erected to the memory of Dr. George Ware, who died Jan. 7th, 1805, in the 44th year of his age.

The friend, the comfort, of the sick and poor,
Want never knocked unheeded at his door.
Oft, when his duty called, disease and pain
Strove to confine him, but they strove in vain;
All mourned his death, his virtues long they tried;
They know not how they loved until he died."

It is likely that Dr. Wood, of Swanzey (which is in Cheshire County, New Hampshire), was of Swansea (which is in Bristol County, Massachusetts).

ii. son John Metcalf b. on 9 July 1788 in Bellingham.

Exposition on John Metcalf:

"John."[1] Son of John (son of John and Susanna) and Mary. It is an assumption that this John was the John who married Hannah Clark, based on (1) no other known John (Jr.) being in Bellingham during this era, (2) various uncles (e. g., Judge Stephen Metcalf) and aunts (e. g., Mary Metcalf) stating their intentions to marry in Bellingham and some settling there, (3) no other record of his death has been found and (4) this John (Jr.) being of the right age and in the right place.

No other evidence is available in any searched source, primary or secondary, that otherwise substantiates nor disproves this identity.

Exposition on Ezekiel Metcalf:

This information was researched by Allen Harold DuVall.

Ezekiel Metcalf, son of Levi and Abigail, was born on June 25, 1784.[1]

See also Ricker, 8736.[2]

A search of the 1810 through 1840 censuses for an Ezekiel Metcalf (and variant spellings) revealed an Ezekiel Metcalf in Perrysburg, Cattaraugus County, New York, in 1820 and 1830. The only other entries found were related to an Ezekiel Metcalf in Ashburnham, Worcester County, Massachusetts, in all four censuses.

The latter Ezekiel was found in the Ashburnham town vital records.[3] He was baptized on 15 November 1801, the son of Ezekiel Shattuck Metcalf. He married Dorothy Foster on 15 February 1815. His father, Ezekiel Shattuck Metcalf, married Eunice Brooks on 10 January 1782. Therefore, Ezekiel of Ashburnham is not the son of Levi and Abigail.

The age brackets for Ezekiel of Perrysburg in the 1820 and 1830 censuses include the birth date for Ezekiel, the son of Levi and Abigail, and we conclude that they are the same person.

The 1830 census of Perrysburg, New York, lists Ezekiel's family:[4] One male age 0 thru 4 years. One male age 5 thru 9 years. One male age 40 thru 49 years. Two females age 0 thru 4 years. One female age 5 through 9 years. Two females age 10 thru 14 years. One female age 30 thru 39 years.

Ezekiel who was born on 25 June 1784 is the male age 40 thru 49 years old in 1830.

His wife Olive who died in 1845 in her 54th year (53 years old), therefore born in 1791/92, is the female age 30 thru 39 years old in 1830.

Daughter Lucinda who was unmarried in an 1839 church record (see below) and who died on 27 August 1847 in her 30th year (29 years old), therefore born in 1817/18, is one of the females age 10 thru 14 years old in 1830.

Daughter Abigail who was unmarried in an 1839 church record and who died on 8 October 1849 in her 27th year (26 years old), therefore born in 1822/23, is the female age 5 thru 9 years old in 1830.

Daughter Julia who was born on 9 April 1826 is one of the females age 0 thru 4 years old in 1830.

Daughter Sabra who died 16 April 1853 in her 29th year (28 years old), therefore born in 1824/25, is probably misplaced[5] as the other female age 0 to 4 years old.

Daughter Rebecca who was unmarried in an 1839 church record and who is conjectured to have been the second oldest child, born say in 1819/20, is probably the other female age 10 thru 14 years old in 1830.

Daughter Matilda who was 40 years old in the 1870 census,[6] born in 1829/30, is either misplaced as the male age 0 to 4 years old in 1830 or was born after the 1830 census in the last half of 1830.

The son age 0 to 4 years in 1830 is either a misplaced Matilda or is unidentifed and born say in 1821.

The son age 5 thru 9 years old in 1830 is unidentified and born say in 1828.

Daughter Caroline who was mentioned in family papers was born after the 1830 census, say in 1832.

Thus we derive a probable birth sequence:

i. Lucinda in 1817/18
ii. Rebecca in 1819/20
iii. A son say in 1821
iv. Abigail in 1822/23
v. Sabra in 1824/25

vi. Julia in 1826
vii. A son say in 1828
viii. Matilda in 1830
ix. Caroline say in 1832.

This sequence implies that Ezekiel and Olive were probably married about 1816, Ezekiel about 32 years old and Olive about 24 years old. Olive would have been about 40 years old when [her presumably last child] Caroline was born.

The 1820 census of Perrysburg, New York, lists Ezekiel's family:[7] Two males age 26 thru 44 years. Two females age 0 thru 9 years. One female age 26 thru 44 years.

Ezekiel who was born on 25 June 1784 is the male age 26 thru 44 years old in 1820.

His wife Olive who was born in 1791/92, is the female age 26 thru 44 years old in 1820.

Daughters Lucinda, born in 1817/18, and Rebecca, born say in 1819/20, were the two females age 0 thru 9 years old in 1820.

The 1839 church record referred to above was from the Stockton Presbyterian Church (changed to a Congregational Church in 1840) in Stockton, Chatauqua County, New York.[8] On 1 [?] January 1839 the record notes "Mr. Ezekiel Metcalf, Abigail Metcalf & Lucinda Metcalf presented letters Recommending them to the Watch and fellowship of the Presbyterian Church in Stockton . . . ." On Sunday, 24 February, the record states "The following persons after giving their Assent to the articles of Faith Rec'd by The Church and entering in covenant Sat down at the table of our common Lord, (to wit) Mrs. An [sic] Maria Grennell, Mrs. Olive Metcalf, Miss Rebecca Metcalf, and Miss Lucinda Metcalf, Mr. Ezekiel Metcalf Presenting his letter recommending Him to the watch and fellowship of This Church . . . ." One may infer from these records that Rebecca and Lucinda were the eldest children, followed by Abigail. One may also infer that the son born say in 1821 was deceased at this time.

The death dates of the children referred to above were transcribed by Allen Harold DuVall from a form entitled "In Memory Of" kept by Allen's grandmother, Ina (Vail) DuVall. It is likely that the form was filled in by Julia E. (Metcalf) Davoll/DuVall who, when she died, had been living with Ina. The entries are:

Sabra Elliot d. 16 April 1853 in her 29th year.
Lucinda Houck d. 27 August 1847 in her 3[?]th year.
Sarah L. Houck d. 14 August 1853 in her 7th year.
Abigail McNamira d. 8 October 1849 in her 27th year.
Olive Metcalf d. in 1845 in her 54th year.
Ezekiel Metcalf d. in 1844.

In the case of Lucinda, the "3" in the age at death is clear. The second digit is not, and could be a "0" or an "8". If Lucinda died in her 38th year it would make her born in 1809/10, many years before any of her siblings, and still unmarried in 1839 when she was 29 or 30 years old. It is assumed that the age should be read as "in her 30th year" which places her in a rational sequence of births consistent with the other records.

Additional information was gleaned from Bible pages and loose notes left by Ina:

"Julia E. Metcalf, second wife of George Tabor Davoll, was born in Persia, Cattaraugus County, N. Y. 9 April 1826."

"Julia's father Ezekele [sic] Metcalf who married Olive Rade (Rude) [Rudd?] came from New England to Gowanda, [Cattaraugus County,] N. Y."

Children of Ezekiel and Olive:

"Lucind Houck had a daughter (dead)."

"Abagail McNamira had a son James and a daughter (dead)."

"Sabra Elliott had a daughter (dead) and sons Cassus, Thomas and Joseph."

"Matilda Stilwell had sons Matthew, Willie and Frank."

"Caroline."

"Julia-—four of her sisters are dead."

In addressing Ezekiel's move from Lebanon, Connecticut, to Perrysburg, New York, three questions should be posed: when did he go, how did go and why did he go.

When Did He Go

No evidence has been found of any of Ezekiel's brothers—Levi, Simon, Moses—in New York. So it is assumed that Ezekiel, as the youngest son in the family, made the move himself. And he would have done so no earlier than adulthood, say age twenty or later (1804 or later).

No evidence of his marriage has been found in Connecticut, so it is probably that he either married in transit or after arrival in the Perrysburg area. It is less likely he married in transit, so it is assumed he married sometime after arrival. Since we estimate his marriage took place about 1816, it is assumed he arrived prior to that period, probably at least a couple of years prior allowing for acclimation to and settlement in the area and for fraternization with other families whose daughters were unmarried.

Thus the move likely took place between 1804 and 1814, when he was between 20 and 32 years old. No evidence of Ezekiel has been found in the census or elsewhere in 1810. Could he have been in transit at that time, about 26 years old? Not an unlikely assumption.

How Did He Go

The Erie and the Genessee Valley canal systems from Albany, New York, westward were not available prior to 1825. The main route west before then[9] was via a trail known as the Forbidden Path (or as the Catskill Turnpike). It went west from Albany across New York State to Lake Erie, a distance of about 220 miles. It traversed westward through the counties of Albany, Schoharie, Otsego, Chenango, Cortland, Tompkins, Schuyler, Steuben, Allegany, the northeast corner of Cattaraugus and then north through Erie.

To get to Albany from Hartford, Connecticut (about 30 miles west of Lebanon), one would travel the Greenwood Road northwest from Harford, a distance of about 70 miles, traversing the counties of Hartford and Litchfield in Connecticut, Berkshire in Massachusetts, and Columbia, Rensselaer and Albany in New York.

These trails were well-known and well-traveled. Adding about 20 miles to get to Perrysburg from the Forbidden Path and subtracting about 30 miles at the end of the Forbidden Path, the total distance was about 310 miles. Traveling alone by horse at maybe ten miles a day, it would take about a month to travel from Lebanon to Perrysburg in good weather—say in the summer of 1810. Or maybe two or three months if the weather was bad and/or the traveler stopped along the way.

Why Did He Go

A large tract of land in western New York, west of the Genesee River, including Perrysburg, was originally a part of the domain of the Seneca Nation of the Iroquois Confederacy. In 1791 Robert Morris of Pennsylvania (1734-1806), one of the financiers of the Revolution, had gained rights to four million acres of the area as part of his land speculation. In 1793 the largest parcel, 3.6 million acres, was purchased from Robert Morris by the Holland Land Company, an enterprise organized by six Dutch banking houses for the purpose of buying land in New York. The land rights were then negotiated with the Senecas and cleared by treaty in 1797.[10]

The company developed its holdings, planned town sites and, starting in 1801, sold lands directly to settlers (many New Englanders among them) for about two dollars an acre. The Company maintained a land office at Ellicottville. In 1814, the Holland Land Company deeded to New York State all the land between the Allegheny River and the Pennsylvania line, with a few tracts excepted. All this land was sold off by 1839.

So the land sales were an attractive proposition to New Englanders and no doubt to Ezekiel Metcalf among them. Perhaps his own land transaction can be found in Livsey's book.[11]

Note: Cattaraugus County was formed from Genessee County on 11 March 1808. The county seat is Little Valley. The population is about 84,000, about 1800 in the Town of Perrysburg and 400 in the Village of Perrysburg. The county website is http://www.co.cattaraugus.ny.us/.

"Eliphalet, b. 28 Jan., 1763, at Lebanon. He probably m. 12 Oct., 1788, at Franklin, his father's fourth cousin, Bethia Edgerton, fifth daughter of Zebulun Edgerton and Elizabeth Tracy of Franklin."[3]

"Eliphalet Metcalf—born Jan. 28, 1763—no further data."[4]

E-Mail from Genevieve Metcalf on 1 March 2000:

> The ancestor in my direct line that overlaps with the Metcalfs in your book is Eliphalet Metcalf (b 28 January 1763, son of Abel Metcalf and Abigail Thorpe). In his case, I have some information that may be helpful:
> . . . According to my information, Eliphalet married Bethiah Edgerton on 12 October 1788. He died sometime in 1812 or in early 1813 in Kortright, Delaware County, NY. Bethiah, the daughter of Hezekiah Edgerton Jr. and Bethiah, was born on 24 August 1772, in Norwich or Franklin, CT. She died on 14 June 1852 in Westford, Otsego County, NY.

More information from Genevieve Metcalf:

> Eliphalet, from Lebanon, Connecticut, married Bethiah Edgerton, from the neighboring town of Franklin. The Bethiah Edgerton who married Eliphalet Metcalf was the daughter of Hezekiah Edgerton and Bethia Peck Jr. She is often confused with Bethiah Edgerton, the daughter of Zebulon Edgerton and Elizabeth Tracy. These two Bethiah Edgertons were distant cousins; they both lived in Franklin (formerly part of Norwich), and they were only eight years apart in age.Eliphalet and Bethiah farmed in Franklin until about 1802, when they moved with at least four of their six children to New York state, at first spending a brief period in Blenheim, Schoharie County. They purchased a farm in 1804 in a part of Kortright, Delaware County, that later became Davenport. They settled there and raised four more children. Sometime after Eliphalet's death in about 1813, Bethiah moved with her younger children to Otsego County. She married a man from Westford, Otsego County, sometime after his wife died in 1819. Her son Ira stayed in Kortright to run the family farm, and was later joined there by his brother George. Uri and Eliphalet moved to Masonville, Delaware County, and Hubbard moved to Cooperstown, Otsego County, for a few years and then settled in Cherry Valley, Otsego County.

Exposition on Bethiah Edgerton:

"Bethiah Edgerton, born at Norwich, Conn., 8 Sept., 1764, fifth daughter of Zebulon Edgerton and Elizabeth Tracy, was a great granddaughter of John Hyde of the third generation. She probably m. 12 Oct., 1788, at Franklin, Eliphalet Metcalf, b. 28 Jan., 1763, at Lebanon, second son of her fourth cousin Abel Metcalf and Abigail Throop of Lebanon. They settled in Franklin, where they had four children recorded to them."[1] Bethiah's ancestry given above is incorrect.

E-Mail from Genevieve Metcalfe at vmetcalfe@earthlink.net on Thursday, 9 August 2001, at 2:49 p. m., correcting Walworth's information:

Subject: Bethiah Edgerton Metcalf

. . . all published Metcalf data that I've seen, beginning with Walworth's Hyde Genealogy in 1864, state that the Bethiah Edgerton who married Eliphalet Metcalf was the daughter of Zebulon Edgerton and Elizabeth Tracy. In tracing my own family history, I discovered that this connection was incorrect as explained below in one of my research notes: The Bethiah Edgerton who married Eliphalet Metcalf was the daughter of Hezekiah Edgerton and Bethia Peck Jr. of Norwich. She is often confused with Bethiah Edgerton, the daughter of Zebulon Edgerton and Elizabeth Tracy. These two Bethiah Edgertons were distant cousins; they both lived in Franklin (formerly part of Norwich), and they were only eight years apart in age. Eliphalet's wife could not have been the daughter of Zebulon and Elizabeth Edgerton for the following reasons:

First of all, Zebulon and Elizabeth's daughter Bethiah died on August 31, 1810; she is buried in Gagertown Cemetery in Franklin near her parents. Her tombstone inscription states that she was 45 at the time of her death, which is consistent with the birthdate recorded as September 8, 1764, in the Norwich vital records. But, the Bethiah Edgerton who married Eliphalet Metcalf was still alive in 1813. In that year, she acted as the executrix for her husband Eliphalet's estate in Delaware County, New York.

Secondly, Zebulon Edgerton's will, written on 13 Apr 1789, refers to his daughter as "Bethiah Edgerton" (not Bethiah Metcalf) even though the will was written six months after Eliphalet and Bethiah were married on 12 Oct 1788.

Thirdly, the surname given for Bethiah on her tombstone is Edgerton, not Metcalf or any other surname, indicating that she never married.

Fourthly, Bethiah Metcalf gave names associated with Hezekiah and Bethiah's family to two of her sons. One son was named Hezekiah, after her father and brother. Another son was named Azel after another of her brothers.

The correct information on Bethiah (Edgerton) Metcalf is as follows:

Bethiah Edgerton was born 24 Aug 1772 in Norwich CT to Hezekiah Edgerton, Junr. and Bethiah Peck, Junr. (Norwich Vital Records, vol. 2, p. 315)

Her father, Hezekiah Edgerton, was born 13 Apr 1743 in Norwich to Hezekiah Edgerton and Ann Abell (Norwich Vital Records, vol.1, p.170)

Her mother, Bethiah Peck, was born 6 Mar 1745 to Jonathan Peck and Bethiah Bingham (Norwich Vital Records, vol.2, p.44)

viii. son Frank Richards b. on 25 June 1845 in Dedham.

Exposition on Abiather Richards:

No record of the birth or death of this Abiather Richards has been found, nor any identifying him as the son of Abiather (Jr.) and Elizabeth Richards. However, his appearance as Abiather (Jr.) in the records of his marriage and of the birth of his children strongly indicate he was the last child of Abiather (Jr.) and Elizabeth Richards. Indeed, the last proven child, Elizabeth, was the only child named after her mother, as this Abiather was no doubt named after his father. In addition, his age at marriage, and the fact that the only other Abiather Richards found were his assumed father and grandfather, also indicates the likelihood of the assumed relationship.

Abiather Richards (Jr.) recorded his intention to marry Julia Colburn on 8 March 1829 in Dedham. She was born on 8 April 1806, daughter of Isaac (Jr.) and Elizabeth Colburn, according to the diary of Nathaniel Ames.[1] Five of his eight known children are known to have died at early ages of illness.

Some information is from Ginger Metcalf Dingus who notes she died in Dedham. Genger quotes from Joseph John McDonald, "Metcalf and Allied Families," American Historical Society, Somerville, New Jersey (April 1938), 356–357:

> . . . Betsy was the first braider of straw in the United States, copying first an imported Dunstable bonnet which she saw in a window, after experimenting with oat straw from her father's harvest. She visited Dedham, Wrentham, and Providence to teach this craft, and had a factory for a time in Providence. When she married and lived in Dedham, Massachusetts, she and the ladies she had taught, made straw braiding at monthly meetings and thereby were able to contribute $1,000 to Indian missions. From her diary we learn that her expenses by stage from Dedham to Providence were nearly paid by braiding while traveling. She is said to have been very devout and to have read her Bible throught twenty times.

H. . . . died Aug. 5, 1867—buried at Knoxville, Knox, Ill. They had ten children."[1]

Clayton quotes Mrs. Claris Cronkite of Meadow Vista, California:

> After the deliverance of their first child, Rufus and Della Davis moved to Cattaraugus Co., N. Y. . . . where he joined the Church of Latterday Saints. When the Saints were driven out of the beautiful city of Nauvoo, Ill., Deliverance Davis was a widow of 59 years of age. Rufus had died in Knoxville, Ill. Perhaps being a widow and not being in a position to travel west with the Saints, Deliverance decided to make Knoxville, Ill. her home, where she died on August 5, 1867. She had become the mother of seven sons and three daughters.

"Metcalf, Theron, Esq., attorney at law, of Dedham, Mass., and Julia Tracy, daughter of the late Uriah, of and at Litchfield, Ct. Gazette of Nov. 25, 1809."[2]

"Metcalf, Theron, Esq., of Dedham, Mass., and July Tracy, daughter of the late Uriah, Esq., at Litchfield, Ct. American of Nov. 21, 1809."[3]

The First Parish Church of Dedham admitted Julia Metcalf, wife of Theron, on 30 September 1810 as a transfer from the First Church in Litchfield, Connecticut. She was later a church founder of the Orthodox Church in Dedham on 29 October 1818, and was admitted to the Episcopal Church in Dedham on 27 February 1824. Her daughter Julia was admitted in May 1834.[4]

A short biography of Theron was provided by Christopher A. Metcalf:

> METCALF, Theron, jurist, born in Franklin, Massachusetts, 16 October, 1784; died in Boston, Massachusetts, 12 November, 1875. He was graduated at Brown in 1805. In 1839 he was appointed reporter of the Massachusetts supreme court, and he sat on the bench of that court from 24 February, 1848, till 1865. Brown gave him the degree of LL.D. in 1844, and Harvard the same in 1848. His annotations were considered valuable for their philosophical investigation and discriminating analysis. Judge Metcalf gave to Brown a set of fifty volumes of ordination sermons that he had collected. . . .

Exposition on Eliab Metcalf:

"Feb. 5, 1785. Eliab Metcalf. Male. James & Abigail."[1]

"Eliab Metcalf—born Feb. 5, 1785—died 1834—mar. to Nancy Benton of Stratford, Conn. on Sept. 15, 1814. They lived in New York City, N. Y. and Eliab Metcalf was buried in Havana, Cuba. . . . They had two sons."[2]

Mark Cilley, on his website at http://cilley.net/thecilleypages/metcalf, posted the death date for Eliab of 15 January 1834 in Havana, that Eliab was an artist/painter and that Eliab married Nancy Benton in New York.

The following notes are from Cary Stone-Greenstein:

> The portraitist Eliab Metcalf was born in 1785 in Franklin, Massachusetts, the third son of farmer James Metcalf and Abigal Harding; his mother was related to the artist Chester Harding. He followed his father's profession until he was disabled by a severe illness that was to plague him for the remainder of his life and dictate his movements. In 1807 he accepted an invitation from a friend to visit Guadaloupe, where he was attracted to the salubrious climate. After suffering another attack of ill health upon his return to New York, Dunlap reported that Metcalf "thought of painting as a profession better suited to his impaired health and debilitated frame." After an unsuccessful attempt at pursuing a mercantile career in the West Indies, he returned to Massachusetts and began to teach himself to paint. Metcalf became sufficiently proficient to earn a living as an itinerant miniaturist in New England, Canada and Nova Scotia. He settled in New York City and received instruction in drawing from John Rubens Smith, and produced his first oil painting in 1815 under the direction of Samuel Lovett Waldo and William Jewett. Although he gradually achieved a measure of professional success in New York, his ailment forced him to relocate to New Orleans in 1819, where he remained for three years. Thereafter he spent four years painting portraits in St. Thomas, St. Croix, and Puerto Rico. Illness prevented Metcalf from resettling in New York, so in 1824 he went to Havana, where he remained until contracting cholera in the epidemic of 1833. Although he recovered from the disease, Metcalf never resumed painting. After a brief trip to visit his family in New York, he returned to Havana, where he died in 1834. Metcalf's artistic style may be characterized as the hard, linear, and meticulously detail-oriented manner typical of a primarily self-taught painter. Although his technique became looser and more accomplished in the 1820s, in retrospect he was a minor figure who, by virtue of his unusual itinerant career in the Caribbean islands, was a historical curiosity. [From Dunlap 1834, 2:230-233. This is an edited version of the artist's biography that was to be published in the National Gallery of Art Systematic Catalogue prior to the reattribution of 1947.17.72 to "American 19th Century." Exposition on Harriet Metcalf:

"Harriet, b. July 20, 1812; md. 1833, Rufus Symonds, of Fitzwilliam."[1]

Harriet and her family were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Ludlow, Windsor County, Vermont, as follows:[2]

Rufus Simonds, 40, male, mechanic, born New Hampshire.
Harriet Simonds, 36, female, born New Hampshire.
Leander Simonds, 15, male, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Erastus Simonds, 13, male, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Harriet R. Simonds, 11, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Juliette Simonds, 8, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Mary L. Simonds, 5, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Ellen M. Simonds, 2, female, born New Hampshire.
Elliot J. Simonds, 2, male, born New Hampshire.

Harriet and her family were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Ludlow, Windsor County, Vermont, as follows:[3]

Rufus Simonds, 47, male, wooden manufacturer, real property $6000, person property $3000, born New Hampshire.
Harriet Simonds, 47, female, born New Hampshire.
Lenard [sic] Simonds, 25, male, mechanic, born New Hampshire.
Erastus Simonds, 23, male, mechanic, born New Hampshire.
Elliot Simonds, 21 [sic, inverted 12], male, mechanic [sic, mistakenly dittoed], born New Hampshire.
Rosaline Simonds, 19, female, [at work?], born New Hampshire.
Julett Simonds, 17, female, [at work?], born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Lovena Simonds, 14, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Ellen Simonds, 12, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Ann Simonds, 9, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Sneld Thurbert, 19, male, mechanic, born New Hampshire.

Harriet and her family were enumerated in the 1870 federal census of Wallingford, Rutland County, Vermont, as follows:[4]

Rufus Simons, 59, male, white, manufacturer of woodenware, real property $2500, personal property $3000, born New Hampshire.
Harriet Simons, 57, female, white, keeping house, born New Hampshire.
Leander Simons, 34, male, white, manufacturer of woodenware, born New Hampshire.

Elliot Simons, 22, male, white, manufacturer of woodenware, born New Hampshire.
Ellen Simons, 22, female, white, house keeper, born New Hampshire.
Ann Simons, 19, female, white, born Vermont.

Harriet was enumerated in the 1880 federal census of Wallingford, Rutland County, Vermont, in the household of her son Leander as follows:[5]

Leander Simons, white, male, 45, single, makes oxbows, born New Hampshire, father born New Hampshire, mother born New Hampshire.
Harriet Simons, white, female, 67, mother, widow, keeps house, born New Hampshire, father born New Hampshire, mother born New Hampshire.
Ellen M. Simons, white, female, 31, sister, single, at home, born New Hampshire, father born New Hampshire, mother born New Hampshire.
Harry E. Damon, white, male, 14, nephew, single, at school, attended school within the year, born New Hampshire, father born New Hampshire, mother born New Hampshire.

Because (1) the earliest (1850) census shows Elliot and Ellen as the same age (two years old on 1 June 1850, recorded on 1 October 1850), (2) there is minimal difference if any in their ages in the subsequent censuses, and (3) their names both begin with the same syllable "Ell . . . ", it is assumed that Elliot was the twin brother of Ellen.

1496. [8]Maj. Horace Metcalf, son of [7]Thomas Metcalf [no. 672] and Sybil Chapin. Born on 23 March 1791 in Enfield, Hartford County, Connecticut. Died on 14 Sep. 1829 in Enfield, 38 years old.

Married Sybil Chapin, dau. of Simon Chapin (son of Ens. Nathaniel Chapin and Sybil Terry) and Beulah Prior (dau. of Isaac Prior and Beulah _____), on 4 Aug. 1823 in Enfield when 32 years old (Sybil was 20 years old). Sybil Chapin b. on 30 April 1803 in Enfield; d. on 18 Oct. 1889/90; m. (2) Rev. James Ely (1798 in Enfield–) after 1860 when at least 57 years old (Rev. James was at least 62 years old).

Issue of Maj. Horace Metcalf and Sybil Chapin:

i. son [9]Horace Metcalf b. on 4 March 1824 in Enfield; bap. on 25 Nov. 1832 in Enfield when eight years old.

ii. son James Metcalf b. in 1826/7 in Enfield; bap. on 25 Nov. 1832 in Enfield when five years old.

iii. dau. Sybil Cordelia Metcalf b. in 1829/30 in Enfield; bap. on 25 Nov. 1832 in Enfield when two years old.

Exposition on Maj. Horace Metcalf:

Horace's marriage and death are listed in Ricker, 8736.[1]

"1823 . . . August 4th Maj. Horace Metcalf & Sybil Chapin."[2]

"Last evening I solemnized a marriage between Maj. Horace Metcalf and Sibyl Chapin 2d both of this town. Enfield Augt 5 A. D. 1823, Entd Augt 6, 1823. Francis L. Robbins."[3]

"1829 . . . September 14th Major Horace Metcalf of billious fever (A Mason buried in Masonic style) aged 38."[4]

"Administration granted to Nathll Prior 21 Sept. 1829. Inventory $5027.69. Widow's third set out to Sybil Metcalf 29 Nov. 1830."[5]

Chapin[6] said Maj. Horace, son of Thomas and Sibyl (Chapin) Metcalf of Enfield, Connecticut, was born on 23 March 1791. He married Sibyl Chapin, daughter of Simon and Beulah (Prior) Chapin, on 4 August 1823. She was born on 30 April 1803 in Enfield. They had three children. Horace died on 14 September 1829, age 38. Sibyl married second Rev. James Ely of Thompsonville, Connecticut, who was born in 1798. She died on 18 October 1889 or 1890.

Horace and Sybil were first cousins.

Of note, "1836 . . . Feb. 19th a child of Horace Metcalf who has recently moved here [died in Enfield and was] buried in Longmeadow aged sixteen months."[7] Also, "1840 . . . December 3d Horace Metcalf [died] of consumption aged 36 who deceased in this town and buried in Longmeadow."[8] That Horace was probably married to Jane Nichols on 12 December 1830, and seems to be no immediate relation to this Horace Metcalf.

Exposition on Thomas Metcalf:

Chapin[1] said Thomas, son of Thomas and Sibyl (Chapin) Metcalf, was born on 10 January 1798 in Enfield, Connecticut. He married Paulina Beard and had ten children [not including Armstrong nor Kate].

The marriage of Thomas and Paulina on 15 November 1826 appears in the IGI.[2]

Thomas, his family and his mother Sybil were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Chardon Township, Geauga County, Ohio, as follows:[3]

Thomas Metcalf, 50 [sic, 52], male, farmer, real property $6000, born Connecticut.
Paulina Metcalf, 40, female, born Ohio.
Sybil Metcalf, 81, female, born Connecticut.
Horace Metcalf, 21, male, farmer, born Ohio.
Armstrong Metcalf, 19, male, farmer, born Ohio.
Alfred Metcalf, 17, male, farmer, born Ohio.
Lovira Metcalf, 13, female, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Henry Metcalf, 11, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
George Metcalf, 9, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Thomas Metcalf Jun., 7, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Ellen Metcalf, 4, female, born Ohio.
Frank Metcalf, 2, male, born Ohio.

Thomas, his family and brother Samuel were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Chardon Township, Geauga County, Ohio, as follows:[4]

Thomas Metcalf, 62, 62, male, real property $5000, personal property $2000, born Connecticut.
Paulina Metcalf, 51, female, born Ohio.
Lavira A. Metcalf, 23, female, born Ohio.
Henry H. Metcalf, 20, male, clerk, born Ohio.
George Metcalf, 18, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Thomas Metcalf, 15, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Ellen S. Metcalf, 14, female, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Frank Metcalf, 12, male, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Sarah Metcalf, 9, female, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Samuel Metcalf, 67, male, laborer, born Connecticut.

Thomas and his family were enumerated in the 1870 federal census of Chardon Township, Geauga County, Ohio, as follows:[5]

Thomas Metcalf, 73, male, white, saw and planning mill, real property $8000, personal property $8000, born Connecticut.
Paulina Metcalf, 62, female, white, keeping house, born Ohio.
Ellen Metcalf, 24, female, white, born Ohio.
Sarah Metcalf, 20, female, white, born Ohio, attended school within the year.
Kate Metcalf, 14, female, white, born New York, attended school within the year.

Thomas was among a list of persons seventy years old or older, residing in Chardon, Ohio, about 1870 in which he was listed as 72 years old.[6]

Thomas and his family were enumerated in the 1880 federal census of Chardon Township, Geauga County, Ohio, as follows:[7]

Thomas Metcalf, white, male, 82, married, farmer, disabled, born Connecticut, father born Vermont [sic], mother born Connecticut.
Paulina Metcalf, white, female, 71, wife, married, paralysis, born Ohio, father born Connecticut [sic], mother born Connecticut [sic].
Sarah S. Metcalf, white, female, 29, daughter, single, at home, born Ohio, father born Connecticut, mother born Ohio.

An article about Thomas in an 1880 book, is duplicated below:[8]

> Thomas Metcalf, having survived nearly all of his early associates, still resides in Chardon, and is in his eighty-first year. Mr. Metcalf, who is the fifth of a family of twelve children of Thomas and Sybil (Chapin) Metcalf, was born in Enfield, Hartford county, Connecticut, January 10, 1798. He came to Ohio and located in Chardon in 1817, arriving June 24th. Six others accompanied him, none of whom are now living, viz: Samuel Smith and his wife, Sybil (Mr. Metcalf's sister, the eldest of the family), their two children, Horton and Maria; Sidney Metcalf (another sister, then but thirteen years old, who, in 1824, became the wife of Dr. Denton, and two years after his death married Jude Converse), and one Benjamin Hibbard. On the journey to Ohio, which occupied six weeks, he drove a yoke of oxen and lead horse, then called a "spike team," for his board. After his arrival in Chardon he worked for about a year and a half for his brother-in-law, Mr. Smith, subsequently known for many years as the landlord of the popular old Stone tavern, in the village, who first located and opened a tavern in the north part of town. He then took up one hundred acres of land at the center of Chardon, now owned and occupied by Mr. Samuel Churchill, where his parents afterwards settled, and where his father died and now lies buried. He there erected a log shanty, and kept 'bachelor's hall' for about a year. His parents followed him to Ohio in 1819. In 1824 he removed to the village, and built a house, the frame of which is standing as a part of the old homestead on North Hambden street, still occupied by himself and family. He also built an ashery on the same premises, and near the site afterwards occupied by the cooper shop burned in 1876. This ashery he occupied for some twenty years. His father died March 17, 1828, aged sixty-two; his mother, March 6, 1859, at the great age of ninety years. Mr. Metcalf was united in marriage on November 15, 1827, to Paulina, daughter of Jedediah and Charlotte Beard, of Burton. Twelve children were born of this union, eight of whom are still living, and exemplify in their lives the virtues of their parents. The Metcalfs, wherever found, seem to have had a common origin, and to possess the same sterling characteristics—honesty, intelligence, frugality, and independence. In 1873, at the age of sixty-five, Mrs. Metcalf was stricken with paralysis, from which she has never recovered, though otherwise enjoying, with her husband, a good degree of health.

Thomas obituary was printed in the Natchez Democrat, quoting from the Geauga Republican, and is duplicated below:

> Death of Thom. Metcalfe
> The following notice of the death of Mr. Thos. Metcalfe, brother of our esteemed fellow townsman, Mr. Oren Metcalfe, is from the Geauga Republican, Chardon, Ohio, dated 29th:
> "Chardon and Geauga County have lost another venerated pioneer resident in the death of Thomas Metcalfe, which occured at his home in this place last Saturday afternoon, the 25th inst., in the ninety-fourth year of his age. The deceased was a native of Connecticut, but removed to Chardon when a mere boy, and here he has ever since resided, his history being identified with that of the town and county for a period of about seventy-five years. He early married Miss Paulina Beard, of Burton, whom he has survived about eight years. A family of twelve children, seven of whom, four sons and three daughters, survive to honor the memory and illustrate the virtues of their parents, were the fruit of this fortunate and happy union. Mr. Metcalfe possessed a strongly marked character, and was known to all for his manly independence, indomitable energy and sterling integrity, united with which were a kindness of heart and youthfulness of spirit that made his life beautiful to the end. In his early and more active years, he was entrusted by his fellow citizens with many public duties, which were always faithfully discharged, and no citizen was ever more justly honored or respected. His death leaves but one survivor of a family of twelve, Oren Metcalfe, Esq., of Natchez, Miss.

"The funeral will be held at the family residence on North Hamilton street, on Wednesday, at 2 p. m."

Mr. Metcalfe, we believe, was not known to many people here, and had only visited Natchez probably once during his life.

Exposition on Paulina Beard:

A history of Geauga County tells of Paulina's father, Jedediah:[1]

Colonel Jedediah Beard, a brother of Amariah, came out in the fall of 1799, and October 17th, bought lot 27, where Noah Pages now has the stone house. The next spring he bought Tomlinson's lot, in the town plat, at $5.00 per acre. This is the 1st record of sale of town property. Originally from Massachusetts, the Beards located for a time in Granville, Washington county, N. Y. Mrs. Beard's maiden name was Charlotte Nichols.

1800. February 22—They started from Granville for Burton with three children—Thomas, Thalia and Amey. All the household goods of this family were in a two-horse sleigh. From Buffalo they drove one day on the lake ice, at night camping at the mouth of Cattaraugus creek. Beds were made of hemlock brush. The snow melted, and in the night Mrs. Beard was awakened by the uncomfortable feeling of water rising throught the brush. Lake winds shifted the ice to Canada, and they built the next day shanties of their sleigh and one that General Paine and his family had come in, and camped. John Moss was sent on to Burton for Amariah Beard, who got a batteaux boat at Fairport, and went to them. Paine had secured a boat, and they loaded goods and sleighs, and sailed out together, Amariah and another man bringing the cattle through the woods.

Mrs. Beard, fearing the boats, walked all the way to Fairport, carrying in her arms a child one year old—Amey (afterwards Mrs. Orrin Canfield, of Chardon), General Paine's hired girl walked with her. The boats were signalled in, and the land and boat parties camped together every night but one. At Fairport Mrs. Beard was sick in General Paine's tent for several days. Two pairs of oxen and sled were sent from Burton for their goods, and hauled them through. Mrs. Beard was so weak as to fall five times from her horse in riding from Painesville. There was not a house on the road, and but 5 or 6 in Burton, when they arrived May 4th. The fall before he had made some trade for the mill property on the west branch, and took possession this year in June, locating himself in a bark shanty, east of the stream near where the bridge now is, west of the village. . . .

The Indians locked fingers with Colonel Beard one day, and he pulled one out of joint. They called him "big stout," and were shy of him.

One evening Mrs. Beard and the children were alone, the door unlatched. An Indian head peeped in, then two came in. They went to the fire and laid down to warm. One was drunk. She ordered them out. The Indian said, "no go out—sleep." She taught them respect. Deliberately grasping the fire shovel, she drove them out and fastened the door behind them. They had so wholesome a fear of Beard as not to return, but went to Parks' house, south, and broke in the windows.

A hurricane came upon Mr. Beard, Kirtland, and John Ford. They were out dividing land. The roar was fearful, and the cry was, "run for the alder swamp," which they did, escaping the crushing fall of the heavy timber.

The Kirtland story of cooking snakes was current. Col. Beard expected him to dinner, and, Hayes says, killed one of the charmers and served it up, Kirtland pronouncing it good.

. . . 1812. In the war—Col. Beard commanded the regiment of militia in the district composed of what is now Geauga, Lake, Cuyahoga, Lorain and Huron counties, and was with the men who went to Cleveland to meet the foe, at the time of Hull's surrender. Gen. Paine was the militia brigade commander.

. . . Colonel Beard will be remembered as tall and erect, in his old age, with white hair braided in the old-fashioned cue, that trailed behind upon his shoulders. Oftentimes in the house of John A. Ford, he listened to the preaching of Elder William Collins, and, with his wife, became a Disciple.

[Mrs. Beard] was a lady of quiet and domestic habits, with strong attachments, never quite losing the desire to return east. At Beardstown, Illinois, January, 1840, she died. In the house of his son Thomas, an acid, or preparation for polishing brass band instruments was mistaken by Colonel Beard for salts. He took a dose and was poisoned, living only a few days, dying in Beardstown, in 1843, aged 75.

Exposition on Dr. Asa Baldwin Metcalfe:

Chapin[1] said Asa B., son of Thomas and Sibyl (Chapin) Metcalf, was born on 9 March 1800 on the road from Vermont to Connecticut. He was a physican and lived in New Orleans. He married Barbara Harris and they had four children. He died in California.

According to the DAR,[2] Asa married Barbara Allen Harris on 6 June 1826. Asa graduated from medical college in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. In 1829 he moved with his family to Adams County, Mississippi. There he participated in many land transactions.[3]

Asa and his family were enumerated in the 1840 federal census of Natchez, Adams County, Mississippi.[4]

At some time Asa lived and practiced medicine in New Orleans, Louisiana, down and across the Mississippi River from Natchez.

In the Spring of 1849 Asa went to California at the time of the Gold Rush. He died on 5 November 1850 in Sacramento, California, and was buried there. That same winter Asa's widow and daughters Emma and Ellen went to San Francisco aboard the steamship Golden Gate by way of the Isthmus of Panama with other Natchez citizens (including Colonel Louis Saunders and Colonel A. P. Crittenden and their families). Asa's widow died on 26 July 1891 in Berkeley, California.

Asa's obituary appeared in the San Francisco News on 27 December 1850:

> Metcalfe, Dr. Asa B. Died in Sacramento City on the 5th of Nov. last, of Cholera, Dr. Asa B. Metcalfe in the fifty first year of his life. Dr. Metcalfe was attacked with this dreadful disease . . . late in the night of the 4th inst., and so rapid was it's progress that in 4 hours he was a corpse . . . Dr. Metcalfe arrived in California little more than a year since wither he came for the purpose of establishing his 2 sons in business. He was a resident of Kingston, Adams Co., Miss. at which place he had lived for the past 20 years. It was his intention to return sometimes next spring to his home in Kingston where he left the remainder of his family, consisting of his wife and 2 daughters. Dr. Metcalfe was a physician of experence in the profession. His sudden and unexpected death will cast a deep gloom not only over his immediate family but a large circle of friends in the state from whence he came.

Some information is from Paula Stewart. She writes:

> Notes from Asa's file:
> Side note from John McHenry . . . "Dr John M., son of Dr James, cousin of Dr. Aza B."
> Letters in Bancroft Library, UC Berkeley, to and from Asa are in box 18. They list him b. 1800 d. 1850.

[4] A. B. Metcalf household, 1840 U.S. census, Adams County, Mississippi, sheet 36, line 2; National Archives micropublication M704, roll 213. Enumerated were a male 40 and under 50 years old (Asa), a female 30 and under 40 years old (Barbara), a male and female 10 and under 15 years old (his children Ellen and George), and a male 5 and under 10 years old (his son Henry). The 1840–1 state census of Adams County, Mississippi, lists A. B. Metcalf with three males (Asa, George and Henry) and two females (Barbara and Ellen).

Exposition on Barbara Allen Harris:

According to the DAR,[1] Barbara Allen Harris was born on 24 March 1802 in Plainfield, Connecticut, of New England Puritan and Quaker stock. Her father, William Harris, was a direct descendant of Thomas Harris who, with his brother William, associated with Roger Williams in founding Providence, Rhode Island. Her mother was Barbara Allen, a cousin of Ethan Allen. In 1820 William and Barbara had emigrated from Connecticut to Hiram, Portage County, Ohio, then called New Connecticut.

After Asa's death, Barbara was enumerated (as A.B. Metcalf) in the 1860 federal census of San Francisco, San Francisco County, California, in the household of her daughter Ellen's family as follows:[2]

John McHenry, 50, male, lawyer, real property $20,000, personal property $2000born North Carolina.
Ellen McHenry, 31, female, born Ohio.
Elizabeth H. McHenry, 10, female, born Louisiana, attended school within the year.
Mary McHenry, 4, female, born California, attended school within the year.
Emma McHenry, 3, female, born California,
Wm McHenry, 1, male, born California,
A. B. Metcalf, 57, female, born Massachusetts [sic].
Mary Haley, 32, female, servant, born Ireland, cannot read or write.

Barbara was enumerated in the 1880 federal census of San Francisco, San Francisco County, California, in the household of her daughter Ellen's family as follows:[3]

John McHenry, white, male, 70, married, lawyer, born North Carolina, father born Virginai, mother born Virginia.
Ellen J. McHenry, white, female, 51, wife, married, keeping house, born Ohio, father born Vermont, mother born Connecticut.
E. K. McHenry, white, female, 27, daughter, single, at home, born Louisiana, father born North Carolina, mother born Ohio.
Mary McHenry, white, female, 24, daughter, single, student, attended school within the year, born California, father born North Carolina, mother born Ohio.
Emma McHenry, white, female, 23, daughter, single, student, attended school within the year, born California, father born North Carolina, mother born Ohio.
John McHenry, white, male, 21, son, single, civil engineer, attended school within the year, born California, father born North Carolina, mother born Ohio.
B. A. Metcalf, white, female, 74 [sic], mother-in-law, widow, at home, born Connecticut, father born Rhode Island, mother born Rhode Island.

Barbara Allen Harris died on 26 July 1891 in Berkeley, California. Barbara's death notice appeared in the San Francisco Daily Morning Call on July 28, 1891, page 8, column 7: "Metcalfe—In Berkeley, July 26, Barbara Allen Harris, widow of Dr. Asa B. Metcalfe, and mother of Mrs. F. J. McHenry and Mrs. E. M. Hay, aged 90 years, 4 months and 2 days." This indicates she was born on 24 March 1801, not 1802.

Some of the information is from Paula Stewart. She writes:

> Notes from Barbara Allen Harris file [Asa's wife]:
> The Bancroft Library, UC Berkeley, has letters to and from Barbara in their McHenry collection, see box 18. They list her as b. 1802 d. 1891.
> Of Barbara, her sister (Emma) writes: "She was the very prettiest of all Captain William's children." . . . She married a "worthy and skillful physician, a graduate of the Medical School of Philadelphia, settled in the South, but subsequently moved to California. She is a widow [1880] and lives with her daughter, Mrs. Judge McHenry, in San Francisco." . . . This from "Aunt Emma's Story" in the possession of her decendant William Mullins.

Exposition on Dr. Evert Denton:

A history of Geauga County tells of Evert:[1]

> Dr. Evert Denton, a learned and skillful physician, famous throughout this section of the county, who wore himself out in his practice, and died in 1830, when but forty years of age . . .

Exposition on Jude Converse:

A history of Geauga County tells of Jude:[1]

> In the olden of Chardon times, just west of the Chardon house, which was built in the earliest of Geauga years, by Norman Canfield, and is still the solid heart and center of the present flourishing hotel of Benton & Co., on the left of Water street, back of its little lawn, was the pleasant cottage of Jude and Sidney Converse. The lawn had young trees and shrubs rising in it, and in their season many beautiful flowers.
> Jude Converse was a native of, and reared in, Vermont. An older brother was Governor Julius Converse, of that State. Mrs. French, mother of the late John French, was a sister, as also Mrs. Eleanor Hoyt, of Cleveland. Jude was then a frank, handsome, gay-hearted, young merchant of Chardon. Sidney, a woman of rare endowments, was a Metcalf, a younger sister of the late Mrs. Samuel Smith, of Chardon, with whom she migrated from her native Connecticut in 1817; also of Thomas Metcalf, of Chardon; Orrin Metcalf, of Mississippi, and the late Dr. [Asa] Metcalf. When she was twenty years old, she became the wife of the late Dr. Evert Denton, of Chardon, then in the hey-day of his brilliant career, a widower with four small children, and by whom she became the mother of Mr. R. E. Denton, now of Chardon, also of Sybil, a lovely girl, who died many years ago. She lost her first husband in 1830. In 1832, when she was twenty-eight, and Jude was twenty-six, they were married, and began that life-long union of rare felicity in which each supplied to the other that which secured happiness, spite of the reverses of fortune which overtook, and would have darkened almost any home not made bright by such a woman as Sidney was, and warm by the love to which both so steadily ministered.

Exposition on Dr. Oliver W. Ludlow:

A history of Geauga County tells of Oliver:[1]

> Oliver W. Ludlow, son of Francis Ludlow, was born in Seneca, Cayuga county, New York, in 1800, and moved with his parents to Westfield, New York, in 1807.—At the age of nineteen, with a few shillings in his pocket, he started on foot for Painesville, Ohio, and there engaged in teaching. In 1822 he went to Burton, Ohio, where he taught school with good success until 1824, where he commenced the study of medicine with Dr. Goodwin. In 1825 he went to Chardon, Ohio, where he continued his medical studies with Dr. Denton; also taught school there with much credit to himself. In 1827 he married Miss Harriet Metcalf, of that place. The had eight children—Maria A., Lineus C., Benjamin F., Washington I., Lycurgus, Louisa M., Harriet E. and Oliver E. In the fall of 1829 he went to New York to attend the New York Medical College; during the winter of 1830 he went to Geneva and taught school in order to defray his expenses through college. August 17, 1830, he received his diploma from the New York Medical academy. that fall he returned to Chardon and moved his family to Newbury, Ohio. In 1831 he began the practice of medicine in that and surrounding townships. In 1838 he moved to Auburn corners, where he practiced medicine until his death, which occurred in 1865. He died very suddenly, after having visited several patients on the day of his death. The cause of his death was a rupture of the left ventricle of the heart.

Exposition on Oren Metcalfe:

Oren Metcalfe[1, 2] was born on 28 January 1810 in Enfield, Hartford County, Connecticut. He moved with his parents to Chardon, Ohio, about 1816 at age six or so. "After leaving the Common School where he received his education, Oren Metcalfe began clerking in a store, a calling he followed for some years, but in 1830 he made a trip to Natchez to visit his brother, Asa Baldwin Metcalfe, who was a practicing physician, but soon after returned to Ohio where he remained for three years longer. Oren then took up his permanent abode in the state of Mississippi (in 1833) and for some time thereafter was engaged in merchandising."[3]

Oren married Zuleika Rosalie Lyons in Natchez on 12 April 1838, the ceremony performed by S. G. Winchester, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.[4, 5, 6] Zuleika was born in Washington, Mississippi, on 31 May 1822.[7]

Oren and Zuleika participated in several land transactions in Natchez.[8]

Oren and Zuleika were enumerated in the 1840 federal census of Natchez, Adams County, Mississippi, as follows:[9]

O. Metcalfe, 3 males 20 and under 30, 1 female 15 and under 20. Actually, Oren was 30 years old, and Zuleika was 18.

In 1850 Oren was a merchant in Natchez and he and Zuleika were raising sons John Thomas Winn, Julius Oren, James Bard and William Lyons. (First son Joseph Albert had died in infancy in 1840 and fifth son Charles also had died in infancy in 1849.)

Oren and his family were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Adams County, Mississippi, as follows:[10]

O. Metcalfe, 37 [sic, 40], male, merchant, born Connecticut.
Z. R. Metcalfe, 27 [sic, 28], female, born Mississippi.
Jno. T. Metcalfe, 9, male, born Mississippi, attended school within the year.
Julius O. Metcalfe, 7, male, born Mississippi.
Jas. B. Metcalfe, 5 [sic, 4], male, born Mississippi.
Infant Metcalfe, 6/12, male, born Mississippi.

At this time Oren was also engaged in planting, but in 1851 he was elected county Sheriff. In 1857 Oren and Zuleika purchased Ravenna, a home at 601 South Union Street in Natchez that sits in an informal park facing a large ravine (after which it was named).[11] In purely Greek Revival style with Doric columns on the first floor and Ionic columns on the second, it was built in 1835 by William Harris, a Natchez cotton broker, real estate developer and merchant. It passed through the hands of several owners before it was bought by Oren and Zuleika. It stayed in the family for nearly a hundred years, being closed in 1952. It is now the home of Catherine Brandon Morgan. The grounds were described as abounding in dogwood, redbud, huge magnolias and cedars. It is probably best known for its ancient azaleas and camellias set in wandering gardens. Inside the house is an exquisite three-story elliptical stairway that sweeps upward unsupported, in the best ante bellum tradition. Some of the present furnishings belonged to Oren and Zuleika, notably the large dining table, twelve dining chairs and a pair of handblown and embellished hurricane globes.

By 1860 Oren was wealthy ($28,000 in real estate and $45,000 in personal property) and was the Sheriff of Adams County. He and Zuleika were raising three more children: son John Inge[12] and daughters Zuleika Rosalie and Medora.

Oren and his family were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Natchez, Adams County, Mississippi, as follows:[13]

O. Metcalfe, 49 [sic, 50], male, Sheriff, real property $28,000, personal property $15,000, born Massachusetts [sic].
Zuleka Metcalfe, 38, female, born Mississippi.
Thomas Metcalfe, 18 [sic, 19], male, born Mississippi, attended school within the year.
Julius Metcalfe, 16 [sic, 17], male, born Mississippi, attended school within the yea.
James Metcalfe, 14, male, born Mississippi, attended school within the yea.
William Metcalfe, 10, male, born Mississippi, attended school within the yea.
John Metcalfe, 6, male, born Mississippi.
Zuleka Metcalfe, 4 [sic, 5], female, born Mississippi.
Medora Metcalfe, 2, female, born Mississippi.

Oren was reelected Sheriff for a total of twelve years after which he was appointed for one more year by the Governor. He then returned to merchandising for five years (circa 1865–1870) in which calling he was highly successful.

Oren is said to have served in some capacity during the War Between the States, but no record of his service has been found (and he did serve as County Sheriff during this time). When Natchez was occupied by Union troops, Zuleika was caught using the large ravine in front of her home as a route for smuggling food and supplies to the Confederate troops. Because of her actions, she and her family were forced to leave their home and Zuleika was required to report thereafter to Union officers every day. Ravenna was boarded up until the end of the war, when the Metcalfe family returned to the house.

During the 1860s three more children were born: Anna, Belle and Richard Inge. Daughter Belle died in infancy in 1865. Son John Inge died in 1863 at nine years old, son John Thomas Winn was killed in 1863, a week after Gettysburg, while serving with the Confederate States Army and daughter Medora died in 1867 at nine years old.

In 1870, following the War, Oren was an insurance agent in Natchez with greatly reduced net worth, no doubt due to the aftermath of the War. Zuleika's young niece, Sallie Medora Lyons, lived with Oren and his six surviving children: Julius Oren, James Bard, William, Zuleika Rosalie, Anna and Richard Inge. Zuleika had just died in Natchez on 15 May of that year (1870), sixteen days short of 48 years old.[14, 15]

Oren and his family were enumerated in the 1870 federal census of Natchez, Adams County, Mississippi, as follows:[16]

Oren Metcalfe, 56 [sic, 60], male, white, insurance agent, real property $4000, personal property $2000, born Connecticut.
Julius O. Metcalfe, 27, male, white, lawyer, born Mississippi.
James B. Metcalfe, 24, male, white, clerk in bank, born Mississippi.
William L. Metcalfe, 21 [sic, 20], male, white, born Mississippi.
Zuleka B. Metcalfe, 15, female, white, born Mississippi, attended school within the year.
Anna Metcalfe, 9, female, white, born Mississippi, attended school within the year.
Richard I. Metcalfe, 4, male, white, born Mississippi.
Sallie Lyons, 14, female, white born Mississippi, attended school within the year.

In 1880 Oren was still an insurance agent, living with his late wife's second cousin once removed, Ellen Hibernia Inge (1839–1918), age 40, the widow of Colonel Robert H. Trabue. Son Julius would die later that year. James Bard and William Lyons were living on the west coast.

Oren and his family were enumerated in the 1880 federal census of Natchez, Adams County, Mississippi, as follows:[17]

Oren Metcalfe, white, male, 64 [sic, 70], widowed, insurance agent, born Connecticut, father born Massachusetts, mother born Connecticut.
E. H. Trabue, white, female, 40, cousin, widowed, music tacher, born Mississippi, father born Mississippi, mother born Mississippi.
J. O. Metcalfe, white, male, 38 [sic, 37], son, single, lawyer, born Mississippi, father born Connecticut, mother born Mississippi.
Zula Metcalfe, white, female, 25, daughter, single, at home, born Mississippi, father born Connecticut, mother born Mississippi.
Anna Metcalfe, white, female, 18, daughter, single, at school, attended school within the year, born Mississippi, father born Connecticut, mother born Mississippi.`

Richard Metcalfe, white, male, 13 [sic, 14], son, single, at school, attended school within the year, born Mississippi, father born Connecticut, mother born Mississippi.
Ellen Coody, black, female, 69, servant, widowed, servant, cannot read nor write, born Virginia, father born Virginia, mother born Virginia.
Judy Wilkins, black, female, 60, cook, widowed, cook, cannot read nor write, born Virginia, father born Virginia, mother born Virginia.

In 1891 Oren's business was general life and fire insurance, representing the Queen insurance company of England, the Providence of Washington, Rhode Island, the Security of New Haven, Connecticut, and the Home of Georgia, and he had been an elder of the Presbyterian Church of Natchez for thirty-six years (from June 1855). His insurance office was listed in the 1892 Natchez City Directory at 108 North Pearl Street.

Oren served for forty-five years (from May 1850) as a Trustee of Jefferson College, and was such when he died at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, 20 November 1895, in Natchez, age 85.[18] He was buried there in the City cemetery.[19] A notice appeared in the Natchez Democrat and is given below. Oren and Zuleika had twelve children, three of which served the CSA notably in the War Between the States—John Thomas Winn Metcalfe of the Jeff Davis Legion (killed in action), Julius Oren Metcalfe with the Point Coupee Battery and Lt. James Bard Metcalfe of Breckinridge's Brigade.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT
THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
NATCHEZ, MISS., DEC. 2, 1895

The session of this church, meeting under the shadow of the great grief which has befallen them in the death of Mr. Oren Metcalfe, the patriarch of their body on the evening of the 20th of November last, would, in behalf of themselves and the congregation over which they preside, place on record the following tribute of respect and love to their departed associate.

Mr. Metcalfe had reached the ripe age of nearly eighty-six years. He was born at Enfield, Conn., Jan. 28, 1810, removed with his parents to Ohio when about three years old, and a little later than 1830 came to Natchez, Miss. His connection with this church dates from Aug. 30, 1840, and was formed under the ministry of Rev. Samuel Winchester. He was one of the now sparse band of veteran members who can remember this church in the days of its vigorous youth.

He commenced his life in Mississippi at a time when the opening of new fields of enterprise was inviting multitudes of young men in the Southwest. Happily he brought with him a sound religious faith imbibed in a christian home, and an equipment of moral principle and habit derived from this faith. This was his safeguard in a time of special danger from the prevalence of license, extravagance and dissipation in the country. Hence it happened that Mr. Metcalfe, while sharing in the vicissitudes which have in repeated instances wrecked the fortunes of the leading men in this community, was able always to outride these disastrous periods and maintain a respectable competency and reputation without a blot. The confidence of his fellow-citizens was attested by the fact that for a series of years he was invested by their suffrages with the responsible office of sheriff of Adams county.

He was elected to the eldership of this church on the 29th day of June, 1855, in connection with Messrs. L. M. Patterson, Alexander J. Postlethwaite and Thomas C. Pollock, and was ordained on the 8th of July following. All of these companions had preceded him to the glorified church above. He and they are now united in the ministry of the heavenly temple.

For more than forty years our departed brother with the steady fidelity which marked his discharge of every office has assisted in the government of this church. With the modest estimate of his ability which he entertained, he has shrunk from the post of leadership, and has preferred to contribute his portion to the efficiency of the session by a regular attendance upon its meetings by his wise and conservative counsels and by the credit communicated to it by the lustre of a pure and consistent piety. At one period, in 1858 and onwards, it may be remembered by some of the congregation that his zeal led him to exercise his gifts in a more public form, and that his voice was often heard in the way of speech and prayer at the devotional meetings of the church.

Although a sufferer from certain infirmities, Mr. Metcalfe's vigor, mental and physical, was retained in an unusual degree to a late day; and it has been only within a few months that a rapid decay gave premonition of the approaching end of the venerable pilgrim. And when the end came it was in beautiful keeping with his character and life.

Suddenly and gently as a sleep comes to the infant rather than as a struggle and shock, death came to him as a peaceful transition. It was simply a change of worlds. "He was not, for God took him."

Excerpt from Memoirs of Mississippi[20]

Oren Metcalfe has been a resident of the state of Mississippi since the year 1833, and during the long term of years that he has resided here he has been earnest and able in his advocacy of what he thinks best calculated to promote the best interests of his country. Being a man of indomitable will power he has been the means of pushing many enterprises that have come up before him to a successful issue, and as his leading characteristics are extreme frankness, honesty of purpose and energy, his influence is widespread.

He was born in Connecticut in 1810, the youngest of twelve children born to Thomas and Sybil (Chapin) Metcalfe, the former a native of New Hampshire [actually Thomas was born in Oakham, Massachusetts] and the latter of Connecticut. The paternal grandfather came from England [actually Samuel was born in Rutland, Massachusetts] but his son Thomas afterward moved to [Enfield] Connecticut, where he met and married Miss Chapin. In this state he resided for many years, but in 1819 [or perhaps as early as 1816] he again made a change of residence, this time taking up his abode at Chardon, Ohio; but here he passed from life three years later [actually in 1827], having been one of the honorable, successful and worthy tillers of the soil of the different states in which he resided. His widow, who lived to be ninety-three years of age [actually ninety years old], passed from life in Ohio, having been an affectionate mother and a true Christian.

After leaving the common schools were he received his education, Oren Metcalfe began clerking in a store, a calling he followed for some years, but in 1830 made a trip to Natchez to visit his brother Asa B., who was a practicing physician, but soon after returned to Ohio, where he remained three years longer. He then took up his permanent abode in the state of Mississippi and for some time thereafter was engaged in merchandising.

In 1838 Miss Zuleika, a daughter of Joseph B. and Amora [Aurora] (Cox) Lyons, became his wife, and after a married life of thirty-three [actually thirty-two] years he was called upon to mourn her death, the date of her demise being May, 1871 [actually 1870]. To them a family of twelve children were born, three sons and two daughters of whom are living: Zuleika (wife of George D. Lawrence, who is a resident of Vicksburg, Miss., and is the present superintendent of the southern department of the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas railroad), Anna (wife of James S. Fleming, merchant, a resident of Natchez), Richard Inge (a clerk in a bank), James B. (a lawyer at Seattle, Wash., he being the first attorney-general of that territory and now the head of a well-known legal firm of that city known as Metcalfe, Turner & Burleigh), and William, who is a lawyer of Oregon. The members of the family that are deceased are as follows: Joseph A., Thomas W. who was killed during the war, Julius O., Charles, John Inge, Medora and Belle.

Mr. Metcalfe followed the occupation of merchant until 1850, being also engaged in planting; but in 1851 he was elected to the office of county sheriff, and as the duties of his trial term was discharged in a manner highly satisfactory to all, and very much to his credit, he was reëlected to the position at each succeeding election until he had filled the office for twelve years, at the end of which time he was appointed for one year longer by Governor Sharkey. At the end of this term he once more embarked in mercantile life, and for five years followed an active business life, during which time his efforts to accumulate some worldly goods were highly successful and reflected great credit upon his ability as a financier, his sound judgement and practical views. At the end of this time he engaged in his present business, that of general life and fire insurance, and now represents the Queen insurance company of England, the Providence of Washington, R. I., the Security of New Haven, Conn., and the Home of Georgia. In May 1850, Mr. Metcalfe was appointed trustee of Jefferson college, and four years later was elected treasurer of that institution, which office he has since continuously held, being the oldest trustee and officer. He is an elder in the Presbyterian church of this place, a position he has filled for some thirty-five years, and for his many Christian qualities, his kindness, charity and love for his fellowmen, his friends are numerous and his enemies extremely few.

It is possible that Oren and Zuleika had one other child who died in infancy—there is a tombstone in Plot 3 of the Natchez City Cemetery that reads "Harry Metcalfe, Oct. 23, 1851—Nov. 14, 1851." Although Harry fits well into the birth order pattern, there is no other evidence which supports him as their child.

Exposition on Lucian Metcalf:

Horace Metcalf, Lucian's brother, wrote in 1903:[1]

> Lucian . . . The second child of David and Candace was born in Newport, Lower Canada July 12, 1801. Moved with his parents to Corinth Vermont in 1817 and worked at various places in Vermont and down the valley of the Connecticut River, usually at farming. He finally drifted to Eaton, Lower Canada and took up the business of a house carpenter which he followed till the close of life.
> January 22, 1835 he married Hannah Smith in Eaton. He died March 10, 1895 in Sawyerville.
> He was a strong well built man a little over six feet in height. He excelled greatly in the use of a chopping axe or a scythe.

I was told by a man for whom he had worked that he (the man for whom Lucian worked) once had a certain piece of ground on the Connecticut mowed in a day by two men and he had always called them the greatest days work at mowing he ever knew. But said "your brother mowed it for me later in only one day."

Lucian Metcalf and Hannah Smith had 12 children 4 dying young . . .

Exposition on Caleb Hardy Metcalf:

Horace Metcalf, Caleb's brother, wrote in 1903:[1]

> Caleb Hardy . . . Son of David and Candace was born in Newport Lower Canada June 1, 1810. When his parents moved to Corinth he went to live with his Uncle Hubbard Glidden in Charleston, New Hampshire. When he was about 18 years old he went to Corinth and lived with his parents till he was 21 years old.
> I will here relate two anecdotes of his boyhood and his youth to illustrate his physical abilities. When he was about 12 he was helping his uncle's hired man to husk corn in the barn and when the basket was filled the man carried it to a large floor in a shed. Caleb for some cause had taken a dislike to the man and refused to help him shoulder the baskets—they hold about two bushels of ears—Calebs uncle being away the man said if Caleb would not help him he would tell his aunt. As this threat did not bring the desired help the man started for the house. As soon as he was out of sight Caleb seized the basket and emptied it where it belonged. His aunt soon appeared and called "Caleb Caleb" "What" he replied "You go and help the man empty the basket" "I can't" was the reply "What's the reason you can't I'd like to know" "Because I've emptied it myself" was the reply.

The other incident took place just after he came back to live with his parents when he was attending school. From one family two boys and a girl went to the same school and all three took every opportunity to annoy my brother. The oldest boy about my brother's age and he thought himself very smart and so did some others. One noon time the girl had a small wooden bottle she used to carry drink in and she had it filled with water and every chance she could get she flirted some into my brother's face. Caleb getting tired of this game seized the bottle and threw it out of doors. In an instant her older brother rushed forward and seized Caleb by the collar as if he was going to give him a thrashing. But in less than a half minute he found himself outside the house and lying on his back and Caleb holding him there. The other boy at first threatened then begged to be let up and was promised that he would be if he would promise to behave himself. It was not till the teacher was in sight coming to the afternoon school that he promised and was let up.

Horace Metcalf later adds:[2]

Caleb H. Metcalf after becoming of age he worked awhile in New Hampshire, making shook (barrel staves) and in working at this business he was foolish enough to injure his health by doing two or three days work in one. He had several times made eight shook in a day and in one day to see what he could do he shaved 15 shook and bent and packed thirteen of them. Three shook were called a fair days work. He never saw a day afterwards in which he could do nearly as much as before doing his work. He afterwards carried on shoemaking, hiring a workman and working himself. He lived in Keene awhile and also in Swanzy, New Hampshire and kept boarders in one of these places. In November the 13th 1834 he married Lydia Olcott of Swanzy New Hampshire. Somewhere about 1834 to 1845 he moved to Fitchburg Mass. and kept a factory boarding house.

Later he moved to Boston where he worked as house painter for several years and then moved to Minnesota where he purchased a half section of land (320 acres).

The offspring of his marriage was two boys, George Edward and Lucian Monroe, and a girl named Mary.

As these children grew up they married and joined their parents in the management of the farm. At the time of Caleb's death they had thirty horses on the farm besides other stock.

The sons after their father's death (how soon I do not know) sold out and went to Dacota but not liking the cold winters removed to Oregon town of Newberry. George afterwards removed to Salem the capital of the state. He still owns a large and valuable farm in Dacota 1903. He has raised a large family and is now living with his second wife. I have had a considerable correspondence with his younger children and hope to have more.

Caleb and his family were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, as follows:[3]

Caleb H. Metcalf, 40, male, painter and boarding house, born Canada.
Lydia Metcalf, 35, female, born New Hampshire.
George E. Metcalf, 12, male, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Lucian M. Metcalf, 9, male, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Mary E. Metcalf, 7, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.

Also enumerated were several boarders.

Caleb and his family were enumerated in the 1860 federal census of Elgin, Wabasha County, Minnesota, as follows:[4]

Caleb H. Metcalf, 50, male, farmer, real property $3000, personal property $500, born Canada East.
Lydia Metcalf, 46, female, born New Hampshire.
Lucian Metcalf, 19, male, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.
Mary E. Metcalf, 16, female, born New Hampshire, attended school within the year.

Caleb and his family were enumerated in the 1870 federal census of Elgin, Wabasha County, Minnesota, as follows:[5]

Exposition on Horace Metcalf:

Horace Metcalf wrote about himself in 1903:[1]

[I,] Horace . . . Son of David and Candace Metcalf born in Corinth Vermont June 18, 1817 soon after my parents returned from Bradford [New Hampshire] where they lived two or three years, but coming back to Corinth when I was near four years old and lived in a small house near where I was born. The summer I was four years of age I began to attend a District school about one and three fourths of a mile distant from my home. The next year my parents moved into a house about one and one fourth of a mile from school.

I continued to attend this school with the exception of Geography and a very few pupils in grammar were confined to the "three R's Reading, Writing and Rithmetic, and Orthography." And spelling.

In reading and arithmetic and spelling I always led my class but I am sorry to say I was idle very much of my time, preferred looking about the school room to study and was always glad to be out of school.

The spring before I was twelve years old my parents moved to a house not far from the center of the town where I went to school twelve weeks each winter till I was near fifteen years of age. When I went to learn the trade of a house carpenter and from then till I was twenty one years old I went to school only five weeks each winter.

The fall after I was nineteen I went with my master and another apprentice to work in Burlington, Vermont for about four months.

About the middle of the October after I was of age I made my first visit to Canada returning in December.

During the last two terms of school of five weeks each before becoming of age I added to my previous studies English Grammar, Chemistry and Natural Philosophy which I also studied at a district school the next winter after becoming of age and later I went to a private school seven weeks where I added Algebra to my previous studies, and the winter after I was twenty five I taught school in my own district and the five succeding winters in other districts.

In June 1837 I visited Boston for the first time and to New York to see my brother Cyrus stopping with him about four days.

While there I saw John Tyler then President of the United States [sic, Tyler was President in 1841–45; Martin Van Buren in 1837–41] go on board the boat to be present at the Dedication of, or the service on, the completion of Bunker Hill Monument. I returned to Boston the night before the celebration and in a day or two returned to Vermont.

In the winter of 1847 and 48 and the two following winters I spent in lecturing upon Electricity, and Electric magnetism and explaining the Electric Telegraph which [was] then comparatively new.

In the spring of 1851 I came to Canada to sell and apply sash fasteners and did well at the business while the supply of locks I brought with me lasted. But being so annoyed at the delays and trouble in getting new supplies I sold out and went to work for my brother at carpenter work.

In the winter of 1851 and 1852 I taught the Cookshire school and gave such satisfaction that [I] was hired for a year to be composed of three terms, terms commencing May, September and December. The parent who had children to send subscribing about 125 dollars to be added to the government money.

Soon after engaging this school I went to Corinth and brought my mother to Canada to make her home with me at E. H. Caswell.

During this time having made what I considered a better engagement I declined an offer to teach another year on the same terms, bought a building lot and built a home on it and on the 23rd of November 1854 was married to Elizer [Eliza] Oughtred of Cookshire.

We lived in this house twelve years during which time two children came to bless us. Alice Amanda born May 19, 1856 and Mary Eliza born May 24, 185- [deduced to be 1858]. In the autumn of 1860 I rented a farm on which was a saw mill for three years. In the fall of 1866 I sold my house and bought a farm of ninety five acres in the town of Newport about five miles from Cookshire. In March 22nd of 1869 a son was born to us whom we named Horace Edward.

After coming on to my farm I taught school three winters in my own district and one in Brookbury township of Bury.

In 1889 I had the misfortune to lose my best friend and companion in the person of my wife who died Sept. 6th of that year. Soon after my wife's death my son in law David Marks Morgan came on my farm to carry on the place and care for me in my old age.

Since my wife's death I have spent most of my time summers in carrying on a small market garden on shares with my son in law.

I am now nearing the 86th anniversary of my birth yet passing a greater share of health and strength than usually falls to a man of my age though I feel that my "Usefulness is about gone."

Horace was enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Corinth, Orange County, Vemont, in the household of his mother as follows:[2]

Candis Metcalf, 70 [sic, 72 on 1 June 1850], female, born New Hampshire [sic].
Horace Metcalf, 31 [sic, 32 on 1 June 1850], male, mechanic, born Vermont.
Edward Metcalf, 28 [sic, 30 on 1 June 1850], male, mechanic, born Vermont.

Horace was enumerated in the 1910 federal census of Gilmanton Township, Belknap County, New Hampshire, in the household of his daughter Alice as follows:[3]

Alice A. Morgan, head of household, female, white, 53, widow, one child, one living, born Canada - English, father born Vermont, mother born Canada - English, immigrated in 1903, speaks English, farmer on general farm, employer, reads, writes, owns farm free of mortgage.

Exposition on Gov. Ralph Metcalf:

Ralph's position as a gubernatorial candidate as described in the 1855 New Hampshire Farmers' Cabinet, vol. 53, issue 28, p. 2, as follows:

Mr. Metcalf and His Position.

Ralph Metcalf, the Gubernatorial candidate of the new American party, is a wealthy resident of Newport, a lawyer by profession, President of the Sugar River Bank, a gentleman of good abilities and one who has had a large experience in public affairs. Some twenty years ago he was elected Secretary of State, an office he filled acceptably for seven years. We believe all agree that he has acted rigidly and unqualifiedly with the Democratic party, and until recently has supported the present National Administration. In 1850 he is represented as supporting the Compromises — in 1852 he stood upon the Baltimore platform and voted for Pierce, and in 1853 voted in the Legislature for resolutions endorsing the Pierce Administration. It is not true, as stated in some quarters, that his is of the Old Guard, but it is true that he ignores the Nebraska iniquirty, and is in favor of a restrictive liquor law. It is stated that he will soon publicly define his position. . . .

The American party was popularly known as the "Know-Nothing" party. Ralph was in favor of revising the naturalization laws to be more strict. he was opposed to further extension of slavery and in favor of stricter laws to suppress unlicensed sales of liquor.

Ralph's obituary appeared in the 1858 New Hampshire Farmers' Cabinet, vol. 57, issue 5, p. 3, as follows:

Death of Ex-Governor Metcalf

Hon. Ralph Metcalf died at his residence in Claremon, Thursday morning. He had been ill for two months with a carbuncle upon the back of the neck, and for a time suffered intensely. For two weeks past he had been caomparatively easy, when the disease taking an erysipelas form caused a fatal termination.

Gov. Metcalf was a native of Charlestown this State, where he followed farming till eighteen years old. He entered Dartmouth college in 1819 and graduated in the class of 1823. Among his classmates were W. W. Stickney of Exeter, and J. S. C. Knowlton of the Worcester Palladium. In 1825 he began the practice of law at Newport, and five years after was elected Secretary of State, an office which he held for several years. He also held a clerkship at Washington for a shore time.— In 1852 he was chairman of the committee for compiling the laws of the State, and in 1852 and 1853 was a member of the House from Newport. he was elected Governor in March, 1855, and was reelected the next year.

> At the close of his gubernatorial term he removed to Claremont, but did not actively engage in professional business. he was, we think, sixty-one years old, and leaves a wife and three children.
> Gov. Metcalf was a man of sound, but not brilliant talents. His views were practical, and although never a public speaker, he had an extensive acquaintance as a safe legal advisor. His knowledge of the State enabled him to discharge the duties of Chief Magistrate successfully, and he retired from public life with the confidence and respect of his personal and political friends.

Ralph and his family were enumerated in the 1850 federal census of Newport, Sullivan County, New Hampshire, as follows:[1]

Prescott Metcalf was dismissed from the Putney church to Erie, Pennsylvania, in November 1838.[9]

Prescott's biography appears in a history of Erie County, Pennsylvania:[10]

> PRESCOTT METCALF. Prominent among the self-made men of Erie who have taken an active part in the development of the city is Prescott Metcalf, Esq. No one individuality is more indelibly stamped upon the community. He is the son of the late Joseph Metcalf, the evening of whose life was spent in Erie, and was born in Putney, Windham Co., Vt., Jan. 25, 1813; he was one of thirteen children, and at the age of eight years commenced to provide for himself by his own labor, being employed by an uncle, with whom he remained for a number of years. During this period, he attended for three months in the year, through three years, the common schools of the neighborhood, at that time of the commonest sort. At the age of twenty-two, he came to Erie and engaged with his brother-in-law, Ira W. Hart, as manager of the livery business on 5th street, east of French street, where he remained five years. While thus employed, he attracted the favorable notice of Rufus S. Reed, the leading business man and capitalist of Erie -- then in the zenith of his career -- whose intuitive judgment of the character and capacity of men was seldom at fault. Mr. Reed engaged him to take charge of a particular branch of his immense business. Soon afterward, the position of steamboat agent at Erie became vacant, which by the request of his employer was added to Mr. Metcalf's other duties. Having for some years successfully performed these double duties, he was then entrusted with the general management of their entire shipping and vessel interests at Erie. These trusts were discharged with fidelity, and to the satisfaction of his employer. This was so manifest, and his services so indispensable to his employer, that when another situation with increase of salary was offered to Mr. Metcalf, Gen. Reed candidly admitted that it was out of the question to dispense with his services, that he could make his salary whatever he might choose to. Mr. Metcalf drew for years $2,500 per annum, a sum more than equivalent to $5,000 at the present day. He remained in Gen. Reed's employ for twenty-two years, from 1840 to 1862. This embraced the closing years of Rufus S. Reed's career, and the most important part of Gen. C. M. Reed's. In these years, their steamers and sailing vessels ran on all the lakes from Buffalo to Chicago, all to be built, equipped, provisioned and overseen, their cargoes to furnish, and all to be kept afloat and made to pay. Steamers of national repute, as the Pennsylvania, Jefferson, Madison, Erie, Buffalo, Missouri, Niagara, Ohio, Louisiana, Keystone State and Queen City, with the brigs Clarion, America, Susquehanna, St. Paul, St. Anthony, etc., all of which were run in the course of this period, and nearly all built by the Reeds in those years. It will be remembered that there were no railroads in operation to Erie until January, 1852. The canal, left unfinished by the State from Erie to Beaver, was taken up and completed. Mr. Reed being President, and Gen. Reed contractor, and when completed he entered upon an active business, in which the building, equipment and running of boats became necessary; the railroad from Erie to New York State line, in the building of which Gen. Reed was President, and contractor for the ironing of the whole, the Erie Bank, with numerous farms, and mill, and all the details of a business unequaled by any one in this region. In 1843, Gen. Reed was elected to Congress, which made his absence necessary. While absent, the health of his father, R. S. Reed, forbade his active participation in business, so that Mr. Metcalf was required to take active supervision of the whole. Though, in 1862, Mr. Metcalf went into the coal business for himself and left Gen. Reed's employ, yet for years he was consulted by him constantly on matters of importance.

During and since his connection with the Reeds, he has been identified with many important enterprises, both in and out of the city. Of these we may name the running of a line of stages between Erie and Pittsburgh from 1840 to 1843; the construction of the Northern Canada Railroad, in which he was associated with Gen. Reed and Milton Courtright; the Erie Extension Canal; the Erie & North East Railroad, in which he was a Director for some years; the Erie & Pittsburgh Railroad, of which for many years he was a Director; a corporator and one of the originators of the Erie Cemetery, in the purchase of the grounds for which he, with others, gave his personal guarantee. To him, as one of the principal projectors of the Erie Gas Works, in which he has always been a large stockholder, is the city mainly indebted for the Gas Works, carrying the stock when it paid but one per cent on the investment. He was manager for the oil shipments for various railroads during the early years of that trade. He was one of the organizers of the Dime Savings Bank, Trustee of Erie Academy, Director of Public Schools, and Mayor of the city from 1862 to 1865; and an organizer, Trustee and liberal contributor to the Park Church. Among other of his enterprises, was the erection of the Burdett Organ Factory, begun Jan. 2, 1872, and in ninety days occupied by 120 mechanics in the manufacture of organs. Since its erection, 3,000 of its instruments have been completed and shipped, to the value of millions of dollars. In 1880, associated with John Clemens as equal partner, he built the Malleable Iron Works, giving employment to over 180 mechanics. With Col. Benjamin Grant, he built Wayne Block, in 1860, on Front street, and rebuilt it after its destruction by fire in 1868. In 1872, he built the block on the west side of State, between 7th and 8th streets, and in 1866 his elegant residence corner Sassafras and 9th -- his home for the last eighteen years; also purchased residences for his sons on adjacent lots and other residences in the city and on his several farms. His domestic surroundings have been exceptionally happy. He was married June 9, 1846, to Miss Abigail R. Wilder, a schoolmate, from Putney, Vt. They have had five children -- Joseph P., William Wilder (deceased), Frederic W., Nellie (deceased) and George R. His father, for about twenty years, made his home with his son where, in 1868, at the age of ninety-four, he died, being then reputed to be the oldest Mason in the United States, his body having been taken to Vermont for interment. This venerable man, a type in habit and deportment of the old school, was a link connecting us to the past, for he remembered distinctly some of the events of Shay's insurrection in 1794. In politics Mr. Metcalf acted with the Whig party during its existence, and then with the Republican. Into his party associations, he brought all of his characteristic force and energy. While never a candidate for other than a municipal office, he has exerted a marked influence, bringing to the support of his favorite candidate all of his intensity of purpose and energy of action. The war, with its large levies of men for the army and navy, furnished him full scope for the exercise of his versatile abilities. Here his zeal was manifested, and the large reinforcements sent forward from Erie during his occupancy of the Mayor's office were much augmented by his ceaseless efforts. He had three brothers who were in business in Erie -- Samuel H., who died some fourteen years since; Charles, long in mercantile and banking business, now in Toledo, Ohio, and James, deceased. He had also three sisters, Eliza, wife of Ira W. Hart who died in 1839, Lucy (Mrs. Hart) who died in 1842 and Mary, the esteemed widow of Joseph D. Clark, deceased, who resides in Erie with her family. Of all these, he has been the counselor and firm friend, and has managed with success numerous trusts confided to his charge. Such has been the career, such the record of a busy, active and successful life. If to do the work of five men could be called busy, then it may be so denominated; and if to acquire wealth and to know how to use it for the enjoyment of himself and the happiness and employment of others, and to lend a helping hand to all those enterprises which in church or State may merit assistance, and having projected to aid them through, then Mr. Metcalf's life may indeed be called a success; and now in the fruition of all these objects, surrounded by a family of prominence and usefulness, and in a community which appreciates his services and worth, Mr. Metcalf, still active and useful, is enjoying the evening of a life, old in years, but still erect, vigorous and active, apparently good for a score of years of labor, usefulness and success.

A short biography of Prescott appears in a book about Erie:[11]

PRESCOTT METCALF.

Prescott Metcalf, eighth Mayor of Erie, was born in Putney, Windham county, Vt., January 25, 1813. He received a common school education, and came to Erie in 1835, when he was made manager of an extensive livery business.

In a few years he severed his relations with the livery business and in 1840 accepted a position with Rufus S. Reed, with whom he remained for 22 years. After severing his relations with Mr. Reed, he engaged in the coal business.

Mr. Metcalf was elected Mayor in 1862 and served until 1865. He has always been one of Erie's most enterprising citizens, being one of the originators of the Erie Cemetery, Erie Gas Works, Dime Savings Bank, Erie Academy, etc.

He erected the Burdett Organ Factory in 1872. Associated with John Olemens, he built the Malleable Iron Works in 1880; he built the Wayne Block in 1860, and rebuilt the same in 1868, after it had been destroyed by fire. In 1872 he erected the Metcalf Block, on the west side of State, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Mr. Metcalf resides in an elegant residence, corner Sassafras and Ninth, built by himself, and in which he has lived for the past 2 years.

Some information is from David Thomson and from George B. and Christopher A. Metcalf including: Erie Cemetery; Prescott Metcalf, record #11016; lot 21, section 1, south side, second grave; date of birth 1/25/1813, date of death 10/14/1891.

Exposition on Nathaniel H. Metcalf:

The information is from Charles William Metcalf:

Sold land in Cheshire County New Hampshire in 1837.

On June 13, 1837 he was in Marlboro (unknown state).

He possibly died in Illinois.

He is enumerated in the 1840 U.S. Census for New Hampshire as living in Marlborough, Cheshire. In that census his household shows 1 male 15-20, 1 male 60-70, 1 female 15-20, and one female 20-30. He is not in the 1850 New Hampshire Census.

There is a Nathaniel Metcalf listed in the 1800 census for Providence, Rhode Island. The residents listed for that household were free males: 1 age 6-10, 1 age 10-16, 1 age 17-26, and free females: 1 age 17-26. I don't know if there is any connection between this listing and my Metcalfs.

Exposition on Hannah W. Worsley:

Exposition on Elijah Metcalf:

The information is from Patty (Conrad) Noice and Charles Eugene Metcalf.

Charles notes that Elijah was a Methodist Circuit Minister. One of the first Methodist ministers on the west side of the Genesee river was Elijah Metcalf, a circuit preacher. Rev. Metcalf at that time resided in Salsibury, Herkimer County. His circuit commenced at what is now Batavia and extended through Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties. He travelled mostly on horseback, fording streams, stopping where night overtook him, receiving such hospitality as one always found among the early settlers of this section of the country. During one of these circuits the first class in the town of Rushford was formed at the home of Daniel Woods, father of D.C. Woods. The members of this class were Daniel Woods and Joshua Wilson and wives. The time . . . was sometime between 1810 and 1816. During this period his home was at Salisbury.
